"LITTLE MISTAKE" GAUTHIER ADMITS IN TWIGG AFFIDAVIT

Meeting Not in Jack Stewart's Office, But in Hotel, Commission Learns

Although the Legislature was informed in the sworn affidavit presented by H. Despard Twigg, that it was in the Vancouver office of Jack Stewart inspector of factories, in January, 1923, that J. A. Gauthier met Hon. W. H. Sutherland and Hon. J. A. Buckham to arrange details of the alleged liquor buying trip, Mr. Gauthier on cross-examination on the stand yesterday afternoon before Mr. Justice Morrison's commission, admitted that the place of meeting was the Hotel Vancouver.

It was just a little mistake in the affidavit, Mr. Gauthier explained when he was examined about it by Mr. Despard Twigg, and also questioned by Mr. Justice Morrison, who interjected queries to be quite certain that Mr. Gauthier's denial was understood.

Mr. Farris read clauses six and ten in the affidavit in which it was sworn that the meeting was in the Stewart office.

Mr. Justice Morrison pointed out to Mr. Gauthier the importance of his change in the place of meeting as Mr. Stewart was a Government employee.

Mr. Gauthier was on the stand all the afternoon. He was examined by Mr. Farris as to his meeting with Mr. Buckham on the train.

AT BETTER PRICE

In May, 1922, a Vancouver undertaker, T. J. Kerney, had a corpse shipped back to Brockville, Ont., and he agreed to accompany the body for the undertaker in return for his transportation. Mr. Gauthier told Mr. Twigg it was on this trip that he met Mr. Buckham, who was going East to visit his father. The late Dr. Jeeves of the mental hospital was with them.

Questioned by Mr. Farris as to how he broached the question of liquor to Mr. Buckham, Mr. Gauthier explained that he started by talking about the bad liquor the Government was selling and telling how he could get better liquor from the Government.

"I told him that I thought I could buy at a better price and better liquor, too," Mr. Gauthier said. "You did it at a high honest price at that time in your discussions with Mr. Buckham?" Mr. Farris asked.

"Yes," replied Mr. Gauthier.

"And you finally got Mr. Buckham impressed?"

"I think I did."

"And before you left, Mr. Buckham said that he would look into your suggestions with the idea of getting better liquor as a representative acting in the interests of the people of the Province?"

"Yes."

Later when he came back to Victoria, he met Dr. Sutherland and Mr. Buckham.

"Your line of approach to Dr. Sutherland and Mr. Buckham was that you could buy better liquor and cheaper?" Mr. Farris asked.

"Yes," replied Mr. Gauthier.

Mr. Gauthier went on to explain that Mr. Buckham then took him to the office of Attorney-General Manson and he informed Mr. Manson that he could purchase better liquor and cheaper.

He took a sample bottle of brandy with him that he asked Mr. Manson to have tested.

Mr. Farris asked him how he knew that liquor could be bought more cheaply than it was being bought.

Mr. Gauthier replied that the late Mr. Falconer of the Liquor Control Board was one of the men who told him this could be done.

"Mr. Falconer is dead; tell us the name of one of these men who is alive," Mr. Farris said.

Mr. Gauthier thought for a while and then said that he could not give any names.

However, he went on to tell how in January, 1921, he saw that they were selling Peter Dawson's Old Curio liquor in Quebec for $2.75 a bottle.

Mr. Farris asked him to be sure of the date.

Mr. Gauthier replied that he was sure of the date as he was able to fix it because he returned from England then.

"That was some months before the liquor act was brought in in Quebec," Mr. Farris commented.

Mr. Farris asked Mr. Gauthier about the affair in Edmonton when Mr. Chief Justice Hartley ordered him to be committed for perjury.

Mr. Gauthier replied that that was on a misunderstanding and the case was not proceeded with.

Mr. Farris asked about the judgment the lawyers there gave for $300,000 by him.

Mr. Gauthier replied that he didn't remember that and that he had not heard anything about it.

Mr. Twigg went over in detail with Mr. Gauthier the liquor orders he placed with distillers.

He read a message of January 5, 1924, from Peter Dawson to Mr. Gauthier which said that no money was sent to the Seattle National Bank as the whisky order had been repudiated. The whisky agency for the Western provinces had been given to C. W. B. Harbord.

ORDER WAS REPUDIATED

Another message from J. & W. Hardie of September 11, 1923, said that the order for 5,500 cases of Aniquary, placed by Gauthier, had been repudiated by James Paterson, government purchasing agent, as "your credentials were bogus" and advising Mr. Gauthier to get his credentials from Senator Bostock, Hon. W. H. Sutherland and Mr. Buckham.

Mr. Gauthier explained that it was as a consequence of these letters that he launched suit for damages against Mr. Paterson.

In reply to a question from Mr. Justice Morrison, Mr. Gauthier said that Mr. Paterson told him that his credentials were bogus.

Letters of March and May, 1924, from the Seattle National Bank to Mr. Gauthier were read, in which Mr. Gauthier was told that the money from Scotland, which he told them he expected, had not come and the bank wondered whether he had got the cash source.

Mr. Gauthier testified that he went to Ducks to see Senator Bostock and met Mr. Buckham at the station there. He said that Mr. Buckham was going to resign and was sending a letter of resignation to Dr. Sutherland, but he saw a letter from Dr. Sutherland in reply saying "the resignation would not be necessary as the matter of G. would be O.K."

When he went to the Dawson distillery, Mr. Gauthier testified in his evidence, he saw Peter Dawson and told him of the arrangements made with Dr. Sutherland and Mr. Buckham.

On February 21, 1927, when the affair before the Legislature and he was working in Seattle, Mr. Gauthier continued in reply to questions from Mr. Twigg, that he met Dr. George Vander Veer, called him up and asked him to go to lunch. The witness could not go, but asked the attorney to come up to where he was working. This man had the Gauthier declaration as printed in the votes and proceedings of the Legislature in Victoria. While he was with him, Mr. Van der Veer telephoned to a man, reported to be Dr. A. R. Baker, who was in Seattle at that time staying in room 211, Butler Hotel.

TO CALL DR. BAKER

Mr. Justice Morrison interrupted this line to suggest that it would be better to bring Dr. Baker himself before the commission and this was agreed to.

Questioned by Mr. Farris, Mr. Gauthier told how he went to Peter Dawson and presented the letter from Senator Bostock. Mr. Dawson said that he had not an agent in British Columbia and was open for one. Mr. Dawson told him that the price of Old Curio Whisky was 75 shillings a case, the price at which it was wholesaling. Mr. Gauthier suggested that he might make the price 20 shillings a case in 2,000-case lots.

Mr. Farris suggested that the price of 70 shillings was put up by the witness because that was the price mentioned in the Government buying order.

"So that if these orders had gone through, in any case the Province would have got full value for its money," Mr. Farris went on.

"Yes," replied Mr. Gauthier.

"There was never any suggestion at any time that you would get your commission from anyone except the distillers in the Old Country?" Mr. Farris also asked.

Mr. Gauthier admitted that was the case.

Brentwood

Brentwood, April 27—A jolly surprise party was held on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Durran in honor of the twenty-first birthday of their daughter, Freda. NEW DRIVE STARTED AGAINST SMUGGLERS

Men and Fast Boats Added By Customs in Eastern Canadian Waters

Moncton, N.B., April 29.—"We are going to hit them and we are going to hit them hard and the sooner the better," said Mr. W. Cowan, chief of the Canadian custom preventive service, declared here, speaking of smugglers. "We are going to put cars on the road that are not only going to be as fast as the bootleggers' cars, but faster. And the same thing is going to be true of the boats."

Mr. Cowan showed plans of thirty-five-foot motor launches, each carrying a machine gun, mounted forward, and having a speed of thirty-five knots an hour. Boats of this type and cruisers are being put into Northumberland Strait, the Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the Bras d'Or Lakes, off the south shore of Nova Scotia and in the Bay of Fundy. In New Brunswick thirty-five men are being added to the force. They will be mobile and can be ordered wherever required. If one is not enough then two, three, four or ten will be put on one job.

NO MORE LAUGHING. "We are in earnest in getting after the rum runners and they are not going to be able to stand up in the sterns of their boats and laugh as they sail away," Mr. Cowan declared. Although the capital expenditure would be heavy this year and the force would not be in operation entirely for some time yet, he expected the revenue to exceed those costs by ten times. Already an improvement was being shown at some of the ports, Mr. Cowan said. Radars, guns and other articles which had been sifting into the country, were being checked up either in Great Britain or the United States, and they were not being smuggled in as formerly. Customs ports returns showed that even in small centres the difficulties encountered by the enforcement staff were different in all sections of the country, but the smugglers were like rats. They work in the corners under the darkness of night when there was fog or dirty weather or something else to aid them. "We are not only going after the smuggler, but we are going after the man who sits in the front seat in church and is the head of the whole thing. He is the hardest to get, but we will get him," Mr. Cowan asserted.

Bootleggers in City of New York Pay Income Tax

New York, April 29.—Total federal income taxes paid by bootleggers in this city last year amounted to $5,000,000, Hugh McQuillan, chief of the secret service unit attached to the Internal Revenue Department here, revealed today.

McQuillan said his department was not concerned with "any law violations except those dealing with the federal tax," and he had given this information to six or more "prominent bootleggers," who had come to his office to "sound him out" on the question of paying their 1926 income tax.

"They made their returns under the clause 'revenue from other sources,' in the tax blanks," he said. "It is not up to us to turn their names over the prohibition authorities."

McQuillan said the amount of taxes paid by "known bootleggers" was about $300,000. Other bootleggers, whose sources of revenue were unknown to the Internal Revenue Department, had brought the total up to $5,000,000, he added.

DRIVER TO BE SENTENCED

Vancouver, April 29.—A verdict of guilty was returned by the jury in the Assize Court yesterday on the manslaughter charge against Antonio Morelle, taxi driver. The charge arose out of the death of John Lawson, who was struck by Morelle's car and killed on Fourth Avenue West. The accident occurred on the morning of January 17. Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald remanded Morelle to the end of the assizes for sentence.

CUSTOMS MAN DENIES ZONING-BY-LAW IS READ FINALLY

Public Hearing Called by City Council For Thursday at 8 p.m.

Summary of Provisions of By-law Show Main Intent of Town-planning Laws

A public hearing for all those who are interested or affected by the new zoning regulations will be granted by the City Council in the Council Chamber at the City Hall at 8 p. m. Thursday, May 5.

The by-law will be finally passed and in force by May 21, as a temporary measure to bridge the gap between the absence of all town planning regulations and the final measure which when in force will be as a scale of standards for all classes of building construction and occupational use.

THIRD READING. The temporary zoning by-law received its third reading before the council last night, and was recommended without change. The public hearing is to give those who are affected by the measure a chance to meet the council and state their case. The provisions of the interim by-law have been the subject of talks by city officials before clubs and other organizations in the last three months, and have been published in one form or another from time to time.

A corrected summary of the temporary by-law is as follows, excluding its legal terms. The by-law was introduced by Alderman H. C. Holmes, chairman of the industrial committee, who with the members of that committee has worked continuously on the project since the first of the year, with the help of J. H. Doughty-Davies, zoning engineer.

The by-law opens with a recital of definitions of its terms, including front, rear and side yards as addressed to all classes of property. It proceeds with the definition of the various classes of buildings, their heights and regulation.

THREE AREA DISTRICTS. The city is divided into three area districts, according to a zone map attached to and part of the temporary by-law. These districts are to be known as Class 1, Class 2 and Class 3.

In Class 1 area districts no building is to be in future constructed which is permitted to occupy more than twenty-five per cent of a corner lot, exclusive of accessory buildings under twelve feet in height, and which may occupy an additional five per cent of the area. A side yard of not less than six feet in width is also provided. This does not apply in regard to the accessory buildings where these are placed at the rear of the lot.

On lots in the Class-1 area where the lot width is forty-eight feet or over not less than one-eighth of the width must be devoted to side yards on either side of the building, with a sum of not less than one-third of the lot width.

In Class 1 area districts where less than twenty-five per cent of the block frontage is taken up by existing buildings no new structures will be authorized within a depth of twenty-five feet from the property line. This provides for the set-back of dwellings in residential areas. Where the blocks are more built up residences will be permitted at the average distance of the existing houses from the property line, but not less than fifteen feet in any case.

In Class 2 area districts no dwelling with accessory buildings will be permitted to cover more than fifty per cent of the lot area, or more than sixty-five per cent of a corner lot, with some exceptions in the case of accessory buildings under twelve feet in height. Side yards in the case of the twenty-five foot set-back is provided in Class 2 area districts in a similar manner, with the "average" distance prevailing in built up areas, and a minimum requirement there of eight feet from the property line. Dwelling houses erected in the non-residential apartment house areas must conform to the general plan, it is provided. Private garages and out-buildings may be maintained as accessory buildings under the scheme.

In Class 1 and 2 areas no fence may be erected on the street frontages of a corner lot over three and a half feet in length. The sum of the accessory width of side yards is reduced where a garage is incorporated in the building, and not as an accessory building.

APPEALS TO SPECIAL BODIES

Appeals from the rulings of the city in regard to the regulation of future building will lie to a special board, provided for in the Town Planning Act. The by-law provides for a $200 fine for infractions, with an additional $200 fine for every day or portion thereof in which the breach is maintained.

Stripped of its legal terms the by-law provides solely for future building requirements, setting up standards for residential and business premises with regard to the general interests of the community in which it applies.

Dwelling house owners are protected under the plan, it is explained, from the selfish intrusion of their neighbors who might choose to build so as to obstruct them. Dwelling houses are also protected from the incursions into residential districts of business premises or semi-business properties which might be of an offensive nature.

Commercial buildings, including hotels, apartment houses, stores and factories, have each a class and a place in the scheme, it is explained, and the by-law will afford equal opportunity to all classes of occupation.

Health, sanitation, light, non-interference, traffic control and protection from incursions of foreign types of occupation in established areas are all aimed at in the measure, stated Alderman H. C. Holmes, in introducing the measure last night.

VANCOUVER ANNIVERSARY

AT THE EMPRESS HOTEL TO-NIGHT
The Daughters of the Empire will hold a ball to mark the 135th anniversary of the arrival of Captain George Vancouver in the Strait of Juan de Fuca. In the city of Seattle a banquet will note the occasion and serve to recall the meeting between the British navigator and Captain Robert Gray, the American explorer. At the Victoria gathering representatives of the United States will be present and British Columbians also will take greetings to Seattle. The celebrations will continue to-morrow and take the form of beacon fires here and at Dungeness in order that the people on both sides of the international boundary line may have another and more visible reminder of the significance of the event.

It should be safe to assume that the dance which the Daughters of the Empire have arranged will be well patronized, for the anniversary should be regarded as an event of great historical interest and importance. Some of us are too prone to forget the exploits of the gallant navigator after whom this Island is named and with whose memory the whole of the coast line of British Columbia forever will be associated. Apart from the interest which lies in the celebration of the anniversary of the memorable meeting between the two navigators, however, there is afforded an opportunity for the people of British Columbia and the people of the neighboring republic to renew the bond of friendship which for so long has existed between them.

KIND WORDS

BRITISH COLUMBIANS WILL APPRECIATE the nice things which The Ottawa Journal has said about their Province. Our eastern contemporary notes that the provincial Government has sanctioned the expenditure of $25,000 for advertisements in newspapers of the older provinces during this Summer. These will portray our scenic beauty and commercial potentialities, a proposal which our eastern contemporary considers a shrewd and far-sighted piece of business.

"In scenery and natural charm," The Journal proceeds, "the mountains of British Columbia and the coast region rank with the best of the world as to offer the tourist, and scores of thousands of Canadians know just as much about them as they know of the rivers of Siem. As a factor in the nation's business and commerce, British Columbia is increasing in importance with huge strides. It then concludes:

No one knows Canada, and properly appreciates Canada, who has not seen British Columbia, because it is quite unique in the confederation of provinces. A valuable contribution to jubilee year will have been made if the people of the older provinces are induced by this advertising campaign to give more attention to that province, and in particular to visit it. The visitor will be amply repaid for all his time and trouble.

Our suggestion would be that if the easterner wants to make himself a Diamond Jubilee year present, he could not do better than come out to British Columbia and see for himself all that The Ottawa Journal has described. He can rest assured of a warm welcome and he will go home thoroughly refreshed in mind and body—with information that should be of value to him.

THE TRADE UNION BILL

REPRESENTATIVES OF FOUR MILLIONS of British workers met in London to-day and decided not to be stampeded by extremists into a general strike as a protest against the Government's Trade Union Bill. Radical group leaders have been circularized by the Communist Party in the hope that they might be able to influence a majority of the executive committee of the various organizations affiliated with the Trades Union Congress; but the main body appears to be just as unsympathetic to the "red" elements at this stage as it always has been.

Two principal reasons obviously are determining the course of the Trades Union Congress. One is the depleted condition of nearly every union's treasury; the other is its refusal to be dictated by the extreme left wing of the party. The general strike of last year, although it lasted only nine days, was a serious financial blow to organized labor. Practically every union paid out its quota to the striking miners and several special levies were made towards the end of that long tie-up. In fact the state demonstrated to the unions what it and the greater mass of unorganized workers could do when necessity demanded. It was the first test of its kind and the experiment showed clearly how both sides lost. It considerably reduced the capacity of the workers to strike again. Moreover, if the Trades Union Congress were to urge that all the unions of the country call their members out on strike, because of the measure which now is before the House of Commons, it would merely be playing into the hands of the interests which have placed themselves so solidly behind this legislation.

Although they may not realize it just now, the extremists will probably live to thank their lucky stars that the men who are endeavoring to preserve the benefits which the workers have obtained after many years of hard work, and not a little abuse, were able to see a good deal farther than the ends of their noses, for if the Trades Union Congress once were to yield to the demands of the extremists, the people of the country would soon authorize a much more drastic piece of legislation than that which now is under consideration.

As to the political wisdom of the Trade Union Bill, there is a good deal of mixed opinion. Not a few newspapers which ordinarily support the Government are bitterly opposed to many of its provisions. They agree that something should be done to prevent a recurrence of the industrial dislocation of last year; but they are by no means sure that by making the coercive strike and picketing unlawful, the desired effect is going to be produced. Both Liberal and Labor parties will vote against it and reports from many sections of the country indicate an impression that if the measure is approved, the reactionary elements which have forced Mr. Baldwin to this policy will follow it up with other retrograde steps, it being suggested that the Parliament Act might even be assailed. The average man, of course, wants to know why Capital and Labor find it so difficult to get together and formulate a policy of industrial peace.

There may be no real ground for alarm; but it is patent that the Prime Minister, who virtually promised "Liberal policies from a Conservative Government," is finding it difficult to reconcile the two wings of his party. At the back of his mind, however, must be the firm conviction that Great Britain is not, and has not been for a long time, in the mood to accept legislation which belongs to another day. He may even consider the results of recent byelections to be the writing on the wall. In any event, notwithstanding its present majority, his Government is in for a merry time.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

POLITICS AND HEALTH
From Willson's Monthly

Lord Palmerston from youth to old age believed in healthy exercises, walking, riding, swimming, and was devoted to sports in the sense of taking part in them, not merely looking on at them. But he had been an incredibly hard worker, and time takes its toll of the human frame. "One morning in October (1885), with Parliament and the Autumn cabinet in prospect, he was gravely testing his strength, when a chance witness at a window saw a Prime Minister of eighty cross the drive without his hat, deliberately climb a railing twice, and go into the house again." Intimate friends urged him to take better care of his health, and he replied: "Oh, indeed I do. I very often take a cab at night, and if you have both windows open, it is almost as good as walking home!" Then there is Disraeli's anecdote: "Lord P., after the division, scrambled up a wearying staircase to the ladies' gallery. My informant, who was behind him, had the good taste and tact to linger. He saw the ladies' gallery open and Lady Palmerston advance, and they embraced. An interesting scene and what pluck! To mount those dreadful stairs at 3 o'clock in the morning, and eighty years of age." Speaker Denison, who dined with him at this time, related: "Dined with the Prime Minister, who was upwards of eighty years of age. He ate for dinner two plates of turtle soup; he was then very amply served to a plate of cod and oyster sauce; he then took a pate; afterwards helped to two very greasy-looking entrees; he then dispatched a plate of roast mutton; there then appeared before him the largest and, to my mind, the hardest slice of ham that I ever figured on the table of a nobleman, yet it disappeared, just in time to answer the inquiry of his butler, 'snipe, my lord, or pheasant?' He instantly replied: 'pheasant', thus completing his ninth dish of meat at that meal."

Queer Quirks of Nature

By ARTHUR N. PACK

Like a rose-streaked cloud floating in the turquoise-tinted tropical skies is the flight of a flock of scarlet flamingoes (phoenicopterus ruber) and lucky the nature lover who happens upon Flamingo Land, because this bird is unique both in coloring and its home-making activities.

Hundreds build their homes together in a community, something like a co-operative apartment building. The bird scoops up mud with its feet, shaping it into a truncate conical mound, in the cup-shaped depression of which is deposited the bird's single egg. In rare instances an over-ambitious mother deposits two eggs. On this eminence the mother flamingo perched as though on a pedestal, incubates her egg.

A glimpse of Flamingo Town, when the mothers are incubating, is worth all the trouble to locate for they are shy and retiring by nature and build their nests in marshes and swamps remote from the haunts of man. Tropical America is their home and they are found in large numbers along the coast from Yucatan to Brazil, and occasionally in southern Florida and Louisiana.

When full grown the adults are about five and one-half or six feet high, shaped midway between a goose and a stork, with humped backs. The flamingo is a bird of awkward build but most beautiful plumage. Its legs are amazingly long and slender, its neck as limber as a snake and curving like the letter S. Its head is small with down-curved beak of peculiar formation. The lower mandible forms a broad box and the upper mandible fits down over this like the lid of a box. When feeding they twist their heads upside down with their corkscrew necks in such a manner that the upper beak is lower than the lower mandible.

Do You Mean What You Say?

"BLOWOUT"

"A BLOW OUT"

From the use of the word "blow" to mean "blast" or "blaze," comes the phrase "blowout," to indicate an ambitious or extravagant entertainment. From the same origin comes the expression like "hot air," in which the reference to a conversation as meaningless as a blast of wind "blowing" on one is obvious, and "breezy," which means brisk, lively or animated.

Keating

Keating, April 29.—Mrs. Gruchy, a returned missionary of the Central India Mission of the United Church, will address the congregation at the South Sanich United Church service on Sunday morning, May 1, at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Gruchy has been engaged in medical mission work in India for many years, and has a very instructive and interesting story to tell.

The tennis season will be opened on Tuesday evening, May 3, when the annual meeting of the Keating Tennis Club will be held at the school at 7.30 o'clock. All who are interested are asked to attend. The courts at the school are in excellent condition this year, and play will be commenced immediately.

The basketball season was brought to a close on Wednesday evening in the Temperance Hall when the Keating teams succeeded in winning the honors in three games with the West Road teams. The girls took the floor for the first game which proved rather one-sided, the ball being kept at the Keating basket, the score being: Keating 20, West Road 5.

West Road Girls—May Anderson, Olive Anderson, Florence Hamilton, Agnes Rice and Teddy Clarke.

Keating Girls—Nellie Sytan, Ona Young, Doris Mitchell, Alice Sytan, Janet Sherring.

The Keating intermediate "B" team again scored a win over the West Road intermediate in a very fast and exciting game, the final tally being: Keating 22, West Road 23.

West Road—Clarence Butler, Edward Maher, Stanley Sluget, Stan Shiner, Fred Sutton.

Keating "C"—Bert Bickford, Stanley Bickford, Gordon Mitchell, Morley Bickford, Leo Sytan.

The most exciting and interesting game was played between the senior teams who proved to be well matched, and a hard tussle was witnessed, but Keating proved victorious, Keating 28, West Road 26.

West Road Seniors—George Lannon, M. Lannon, M. Tubman, M. Rice, P. Lannon.

Keating Seniors—W. Bates, M. Atkinson, R. Mitchell, A. Bickford, Bates, Morley Bickford.

Refreshments and dancing to the strains of Ron Smith's orchestra concluded the evening.

PLAN APPEAL ON LUMBERING WAGE

Cookhouse Workers to Take Legal Action to Come Under Wage Law

Workers in the lumber industry of the Prince George district are planning an appeal against a court decision by which cookhouse and similar employees are barred from the operation of the male minimum wage act, according to advices received here.

In this effort to secure the advantages of the statute, the workers will seek the operation of the board in charge of the enforcement of the wage law. This request, it is believed, will receive sympathetic consideration from the board of its regulation. This was intended to apply to the entire lumber industry.

WATER RATES

To the Editor:—The arrival of my water bill for the current month, with an extra charge for using more than the minimum amount, reminds me that the promised revision of water rates has evidently not yet been made. How much longer must citizens wait before action is taken?

Why is it that we are compelled to pay during the winter months for more than is actually used? Obviously to bring additional revenue to the city. But as soon as our communities to beautify his place and thus help in making the city more attractive he is at once penalized, is it not possible to qualify the charges during the Summer and Winter months? Or, better still, charge a flat rate per month, based on the number of persons in a house, number of rooms occupied and the area of lawn or garden, and do away entirely with the expensive meter system.

We are prone to measure out harsh criticism against a corporation that deals unjustly with its employees, but what difference is there between such a corporation and a city council that exacts more than is just from its water users? One wonders if there is any other city in Canada, or a similar size, with such an unlimited supply of water, with operating charges as low and the rate so high. Surely we are not justified in commercializing what a kind Providence gives to us so generously and without which neither man nor herb can exist.

Moreover our City Council votes $25,000 to advertise Victoria. (The wisdom of which might very well be questioned, but of what use is it to bring tourists here during the months of July and August to see our lawns and boulevards as brown as an East Indian? Generally speak

Dear Sirs:
After having eight (8) treatments of Wilshire's "I-ON-A-CO" Magnet Belt, I cannot but express my gratitude for what it has done for me.

I have suffered with severe pains in my chest ever since last October, 1926, and now, since these treatments, can safely say I have been greatly relieved.

I am indeed grateful, and highly recommend "I-ON-A-CO" to anyone.

Yours sincerely,
R. J. KNATOUS.

ing citizens would gladly keep their lawns and the boulevards in front of their residences as green as the Emerald Isle, were it not for the extra charges imposed.

I had been hoping that some other citizen would have called attention to this matter, and regret that it has been necessary to use your valuable space. More especially as settlement of the question is long overdue.

Dear Sirs:
After having eight (8) treatments of Wilshire's "I-ON-A-CO" Magnet Belt, I cannot but express my gratitude for what it has done for me.

I have suffered with severe pains in my chest ever since last October, 1926, and now, since these treatments, can safely say I have been greatly relieved.

I am indeed grateful, and highly recommend "I-ON-A-CO" to anyone.

Yours sincerely,
R. J. KNATOUS.

Will Establish Volcanic Survey Station at Kodiak

Dr. T. A. Jaggar, head of the Volcanology section of the United States Geological Survey, arrived in the city this morning aboard the R.M.S. Niagara, en route to Kodiak, Alaska, to establish a station for the measuring of earthquakes and observations of volcanic eruptions.

Dr. Jaggar, who is accompanied by Mrs. Jaggar, will leave for Seattle on the 4.30 boat this afternoon. From Seattle he will take passage to Alaska. For some time now he has been spending a vacation in Honolulu. While in the city he is the guest of Mrs. Rhodes, of Terrace Avenue.

Having accomplished his mission at Kodiak, Dr. Jaggar intends to later visit volcanic regions in other parts of Southwestern Alaska, to investigate earthquakes and volcanic action.

NEWSIN BRIEF

A roof fire broke out this morning at 349 North Park Street. Little damage was done.

In connection with the Spring Dog Show a talk will be given over radio CFCT this evening at 8.30 o'clock.

John R. Michell, petitioner, was granted an absolute decree of divorce from Zella Michell by Mr. Justice W. A. MacDonald yesterday.

The regular weekly police dance will be held at headquarters this evening with Bishop's orchestra attending. There will be a buffet supper for the guests.

A meeting of the disabled section of the Pro Patria Branch, B.E.S.L., will be held on Monday evening at the clubrooms on Courtney Street. A large attendance is requested.

Elliott, Maclean and Shandley have been appointed as special counsel to the city for the year 1927. The city council ratified the action last night, setting $125 per month as an all-inclusive sum for the services of the firm.

Those firms having accounts with the Victoria Mutual Festival Association are requested to render same as soon as possible to the recording secretary, Mrs. R. Walsh, 2527 Beach Drive in order that the books may be closed before the annual meeting, May 11, 1927.

James Barf, city building inspector, was granted extended leave of absence on the grounds of ill-health last night by the city council. L. J. Eckman will serve as building inspector in the absence of Mr. Barf, who is recovering from a serious illness.

On checking over the adjudicator's reports, it is found necessary to correct published reports in so far as they concern class 27 of the Victoria Musical Festival. This class was for violin solo, under twelve years, and was won by Rosette Lee with 83 marks. Alfred Hewitt being second with 79, and John Pimm third with 78 marks.

Replying to a request from the School Board that the Graham estate on Hillside Avenue be set aside for school purposes, the city council last night decided to inform the board that the land was already under reserve as a public playground. Its division for school or other purposes could take place when the actual need arose, it was stated.

John Unwin, a youth of eighteen years of age, charged with bringing into Victoria tobacco and cigarettes from the United States, appeared before Magistrate Jay in the city police court this morning and was remanded until Friday next. Unwin was represented by Mr. C. Lowe, J. R. Clearhouse appearing for the prosecution.

Under the auspices of the Christ Church Cathedral Women's Auxiliary, Dean Quinlan will give a lecture on Hinduism, on Monday, May 2 at 3 p.m. in the auditorium of the Memorial Hall. This closing lecture of the series on "Comparative Religions," should interest all church members and insure a good attendance at the general public.

Herbert Shade, past president of the Victoria Life Underwriters' Association, has been appointed presiding examiner at the May 6 examinations of applicants for the degree of Chartered Life Underwriter. Twelve will write on the examination, it is stated. The first examination of C.L.U. was first created locally in 1925, with the examinations this year being the second to be held under similar auspices.

C. H. Carpenter, Toronto, manager of the National Life of Canada, has retired from active business and will make his home in Victoria. It is stated in word received here in insurance circles to-day, Mr. Carpenter passed through Victoria last night or two occasions in the last few years, and expressed at the time a desire to return to live here. He was for three years connected also with the Great West Life in a leading capacity.

Members of the Y.W.C.A. Welcome Club were responsible for the excellent entertainment given at the Aged Men's Home last evening. Rev. T. W. Gladstone was the chairman, and the programme included selections by an orchestra; vocal numbers by Miss Jones, Miss Hedley, Miss Taylor; instrumental numbers by Miss Thorne, Miss Bayden, Miss Bottell, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Scourrah, Miss Jarmar and Mrs. Squires, and recitations by Mrs. Dearborn. After the serving of delicious refreshments by the visitors, they were warmly thanked by the inmates and asked to come again.

Victoria and Vancouver Island are most favorably mentioned in the April number of "Country Life in British Columbia," a new magazine being published monthly by the Kootenay Boundary Newspapers Limited, Vancouver. On the front of the magazine is a view of the broom in Beacon Hill Park. On another page is a description of Victoria, her industries, shipping tonnage and other commercial news in a condensed form. A full page article describes Victoria as a city of opportunities, while another long article by Frank Glolma, of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, tells of the country life on Vancouver Island.

PREMIER BALDWIN'S DAUGHTER HERE

She and Husband Travel Far to Meet Here for Holiday Together

Premier Baldwin's daughter is in Victoria to-day at the Empress Hotel and will spend several days holidaying in the island.

She is Mrs. H. M. Huntington-Whiteley, and has come to Victoria to be with her husband, Lieut. Commander Huntington-Whiteley, who is on six days' leave from the H.M.S. Danae, now in Chinese waters. He crossed the Pacific, while she crossed the Atlantic and this continent, to meet here. The meeting after the long journeys took place in Vancouver yesterday, where the commander went to meet his wife as she stepped off the train and escort her to Victoria.

WEST COAST PLANT WANTS INFORMATION

Big Producers Interested in Victoria as Storage Port For Product

The announcement of the Canadian National Railway to the effect that fish oil storage tanks are to be erected at this port, brought a communication to the Chamber of Commerce directors from the Sechart Fisheries Limited, with headquarters in this city, asking for advice as to the facilities to be afforded. The Sechart Fisheries Limited are big producers of fish oil, the communication desiring to know what advantages they could obtain by having their freight charges between those points. The letter has been referred to the transportation section of the chamber for action.

A letter from a resident of Langford District, complaining of the mail service between that point and Victoria, was read to the board. It pointed out that a letter took forty-eight hours to be delivered to Victoria. It mailed in the morning at Langford.

Mr. Schwenger asserted that Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie had been approached with a view to gaining redress, but that the minister for Victoria at Ottawa had replied that he was able to do nothing. The Government, it has been explained, could not expend such a sum as was required to give the former fast mail service between Langford and Victoria.

A letter from the Seattle Yacht Club urging that some allowance be made for American yachting parties on hired yachts plying in Canadian waters, was received by the directors. B. C. Nicholas, speaking of the national policy of keeping loosely chartered yachts out of Canadian waters, said that the question affected the whole country. Where British Columbia was asking for one thing, the rest of Canada, especially those parts bordering on the Great Lakes and the Maritime Provinces, desired protection for the shipbuilding industry and would move for opposite measures. He suggested that a committee look into the matter. Such a committee was appointed and Mr. Adams, of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, will be asked to serve upon it.

Miss Madeleine Woodman, No. 3, in the fourth day's balloting, strengthened her lead in the race for the title of "Victoria Beauty." The lively struggle between Miss Phyllis McKillop, No. 1, known as "Miss Sidney," and Miss Kathryn McLaren, No. 14, of Victoria, continued. On Wednesday Miss McLaren, with her head and lace bathing costume, and gathered in more votes than Miss McKillop. To-day, however, Miss McKillop threw herself more than ever into her ap- pearance, and with the support of Spanish people and the support of Lauren out in the day's balloting, but by only fifteen votes.

Miss Margaret Wright, No. 11, since ran strong up her long hair, is running in fourth place, although she did not poll quite as strong yesterday as she did Wednesday.

Miss Jessie Wright, No. 9, and Miss Edna May Parkes, No. 8, the dainty little dancer, both gained yesterday in the voting, but Miss Mini Rudolph, No. 1, and another little dancer for some reason slumped, having her worst day yet.

Miss Madeleine Burke, No. 5, had good support, and is fighting neck and neck with Miss Constance Rivers, No. 4.

Miss Katherine Albany, No. 2, who ran strong on Wednesday, dropped back yesterday.

Miss Gertrude Frayne, No. 6, the Mill Bay bathing beauty, who is the choice of the Shannan and Cowichan districts, will gain heavily to-day and Saturday, it is expected, as many up-Island people come to town for the end of the week.

Miss Len, No. 12, and Miss Edna Sanster, No. 13, are fighting at present for fifth or sixth places, but these standings may be greatly changed by the heavy voting which will take place during the final two days.

Miss Margaret Warner, No. 10, the French beauty, will not return to the contest, it was announced to-day. She retired to have the style of her Montmartre green bathing suit changed, but her retirement of the contest has been a great that she has now gone to the hospital for treatment and rest for her nerves.

Parla, April 29 — Mr. and Mrs. William Kismet Vanderbilt, long prominent in New York society, yesterday brought suit for divorce against each other.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was the former Virginia Fair, daughter of the late Senator Fair of California, wealthy mine owner, filed her petition first and consequently her suit will be heard before that of her husband, which is in the nature of a counter-suit.

The funeral of the late Edwin Dickinson took place yesterday morning, with a large attendance at the fair. Mr. Strath raised a laugh when he pleaded with the fair patrons not to confuse the Chamber delegates with the entries in the bathing beauty contest, as all stood on the band platform.

SCOTCH PROGRAMME
A fine Scotch programme of Highland dancing and airs was staged last night by members of the Burns Club and Victoria-Caledonia. Miss Nancy Ferguson and Miss Adeline Grant gave a spirited exhibition of the sword dance, to the striding of pipes played by Piper Donald Cameron. The stirring martial music and the lyric ballads of fair Scotland rounded out an excellent programme in honor of Scotch song.

To-night the Canadian Scottish Juvenile Pipe Band will give a feature programme, while many services will be rendered to those who visit the fair in the closing moments.

Proof of the fact that exhibits at the exhibition are proving a pulling attraction this year lies in the fact that many patrons have been seen again and again at the Armories. Some of the displays require a considerable review before the finer points of their interest become apparent. Many realizing that they rushed away too soon, have gone back to find fresh discoveries of interest to them on each occasion.

WORK FOR FILM INDUSTRY HERE

British Government Capital Ready to Assist Canadian Enterprise

Information that the British Parliament had passed a large sum of money for the encouragement of the motion picture industry in Canada, was given by Alderman H. Cuthbert Holmes of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce to-day.

The City Council, he said, had cabled to the Agent-General for British Columbia, J. C. Pauline, in London, asking him to approve of suitable parties, including Matheson Lang, eminent English actor and one interested in the film industry, in order to secure a British Government grant of £100,000 for the development of a motion picture studio in Victoria.

Word is awaited from the Agent-General at present, says Alderman Holmes, and since he has been working on the matter for some time, some success is anticipated.

VICTORIA LOGICAL POINT FOR TEXTILE MILL, SAYS EXPERT

Finances One Stumbling Block Ahead of Establishment of Industry

Following careful investigation, John Moore, who came here from England some time ago to discover what possibility there was for the establishment of a worsted mill in Victoria, it was announced at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day by Alderman H. Cuthbert Holmes that this city was well suited for such an industry and that the worsted mill would be a splendid investment.

There was only one stumbling block in the way, said Alderman Holmes, and that was the fact that the £100,000 had to be raised before the textile mill could be started here.

The government's policy made it impossible for aid from this direction, said Alderman Holmes, but the generous attitude of the bankers and of the business men here was most encouraging, he said.

A worsted mill such as Mr. Moore had been considering, would become a prosperous industry, Alderman Holmes thought. The income in Victoria through salaries alone would be considerable and the annual output would be up in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, he went on.

Mr. Moore himself has $40,000 cash ready to invest in the textile milling project.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT IS STAGED BY CHOR

Large Attendance at Function Staged Under Auspices of Naval and Garrison Church

The concert held under the auspices of the choir of St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church at the Rex Theatre, Esquimalt, on Wednesday evening was an unqualified success, the theatre being filled to capacity and the number of the choir being received with well-merited applause.

The two sketches included in the programme, "The Radio," by G. H. Hallett, and "F. E. Rowley," assisted by the ladies of the choir, and "Nicknames," by Mrs. Marion Corby, who also gave two recitations, and Miss Ella Pottinger, were greatly enjoyed and also the choir sang and chorused, "Jack's the Boy," by S. T. White and the ladies of the choir. Miss Jean McLean danced the "Highland Fling" and the "Irish Jig" very gracefully and to the accompaniment of Master George Tate.

The proceeds of the concert were devoted to the fund for the installation of a new furnace in St. Paul's Church at Esquimalt.

programme of one minute talks, the Chamber of Commerce delegates made a great impression. Mr. Muir, president, W. T. Strath, vice-president, and W. N. Kennedy, chairman of the industrial committee, filled the second half of the programme with arguments in support of the buy-at-home movement.

The tooting horns of the cars of the procession on the way out attracted a considerable volume of fresh attendance at the fair. Mr. Strath raised a laugh when he pleaded with the fair patrons not to confuse the Chamber delegates with the entries in the bathing beauty contest, as all stood on the band platform.

Schooner Mable Dell Reported to Have Been Secured By John Barrymore

Is Now in Harbor Being Painted; Was Formerly Government Boat

Having been sold to United States interests by her former owners, the two-masted schooner "Mable Dell," formerly the Canadian Government vessel Naden, is lying in Victoria Harbor to-day undergoing painting in preparation for delivery at Los Angeles.

It is reported that the Mable Dell has been purchased for John Barrymore and John Gilbert, motion picture actors and that it will be used for scenes in pictures in the near future. It has been undergoing extensive alterations in Vancouver for several weeks and is now well fitted with luxurious accommodations for crew and passengers. The vessel will probably be in the harbor here for a week, it was stated yesterday.

The Naden, which the Mable Dell was built by Wallace Shipyards in Vancouver in 1913. She is eighty feet long and has a beam of twenty feet. Her depth is eight feet seven inches. The vessel was originally used for Government work on the coast.

DIRECTORS TO WORK WITH CITY COUNCIL

Chamber of Commerce Representatives to Serve on Industrial Committee

In order to secure better co-operation between the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor J. Pendray suggested at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day that several directors should serve with the aldermen on the Industrial Committee of the City Council. Mr. Schwenger pointed out that the first of tanks which are to be erected on the Ogden Point docks were moved for by both the council and the chamber, but that co-operation effort would simplify such work.

Mayor C. Pendray stated that he would recommend to the council that three directors be placed upon the City Council's Committee. The directors passed in favor of such a move.

NEED AN EXPERT
Alderman Holmes stated that in his opinion there should be some permanent industrial expert to work with this committee.

It was decided that three representatives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce should be invited to attend the meetings of the directors in future on the suggestion of Mr. Nicholas. Archie Muir, president of the Junior Chamber, will select each meeting's representatives. Mayor Pendray moved to this effect.

GAUTHIER INQUIRY UNCOVERS MAZE OF PAPERS AND CABLES

GAUTHIER RECALLED
Mr. Gauthier was then recalled, to be cross-examined by W. de B. Farris, Government counsel. He was asked on what he based his statement that he had received liquor orders actually signed by the Government purchasing agent. To this Mr. Gauthier replied that it was on the strength of the documents that Mr. Barnes had loaned him money. He was positive the documents were signed by Mr. Paterson.

At this point Mr. Gauthier admitted that he was mistaken in his affidavit about the date of his trip to Victoria. Instead of June the date should have been late in July.

H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., told the commissioner there were discrepancies in the affidavit which would be cleared up later.

Questioned further about his alleged agreement with Hon. W. H. Sutherland to split liquor commissions with him, witness swore this agreement had been signed by Mr. Farris in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, in the reading-room.

To check these facts, Mr. Farris drew a rough diagram of the chateau and showed it to witness. Mr. Gauthier indicated where he and Dr. Sutherland met, and added that his agreement with the Minister had been written in ink. He did not ask for a copy of the agreement.

His last talk to Mr. Speaker Buckham on the subject of his liquor deals took place at the end of 1923 or the beginning of 1924, said Mr. Gauthier. He did not see Mr. Buckham after his transaction with W. T. McArthur, of Vancouver, referred to earlier.

Questioned further, Mr. Gauthier said he could not remember whether Mr. Buckham had been present when Dr. Sutherland said he had given the Ottawa agreement to Mr. Buckham. He did not ask Mr. Buckham whether he had received the agreement, he said. He did not discuss the matter with Mr. Buckham, but he had no desire to keep it secret. He was under the impression that Dr. Sutherland had told Mr. Buckham and that discussion of the agreement was unnecessary.

CLAIMED $38,800
Witness said he had claimed $38,800 for his liquor commissions when interviewed by Mr. McArthur. He had been satisfied with Mr. McArthur's verbal promise to pay him $20,000 in two months after a cash payment of $5,000.

"On the strength of an unwritten agreement you surrendered your documents," asked Mr. Farris.

"Yes, the balance of the documents," said Mr. Gauthier.

"Did you mention your promise of $20,000 to Alex Henderson, K.C.?" "I told Mr. Henderson what the transaction was."

"Was McArthur present?" "That I don't remember. As McArthur went out to get the money," Mr. Gauthier said that after two months he wrote Mr. McArthur once, asking for his $20,000. This letter reached no answer so he went to a lawyer, who pressed his claims. He was positive he wrote only once to Mr. McArthur as he employed a solicitor to handle his case.

Mr. Farris referred witness to Mr. Twigg's speech in the Legislature, stating that Mr. Gauthier had written to Mr. McArthur threatening suit against Mr. Paterson. Mr. Gauthier said this was correct.

Mr. Farris then asked Mr. Gauthier to take some dictation.

Mr. Gauthier sat at a desk and his will from Mr. Farris. Mr. Farris asked him to use a pen lying on the desk. Mr. Gauthier protested that he was accustomed to his own pen, but finally he took the pen and wrote at Mr. Farris's dictation: "Vancouver, B.C., March 25, 1924." Then he took his own pen and wrote:

"W. T. McArthur, Esq., 1012 Granville Street.

"After weighing your reasons that you gave me this afternoon without further delay I came to the conclusion that the whole thing was just a camouflage. You haven't to cable the Old Country for information regarding the amount of liquor shipped. You can easily get that from Victoria. You know the orders given me were for 10,000 cases, and that they were by Paterson on his trip to the pen and wrote at Mr. Farris's dictation: "Vancouver, B.C., March 25, 1924." Then he took his own pen and wrote:

"What I want is my commission, which amounts to $24,874. It has been a long wait for that money, but I will not wait any longer. Mind you this is not a threat, but simply demanding what is coming to me by right. This is final so far as I am concerned. I will not wait 'till Saturday as you asked me. Thanking you for the effort you have made on my behalf.

"I am, Sir,
Yours truly,
"John A. Gauthier."

Mr. Farris gave Mr. Cowan the copy of the document from which he read the dictation to Mr. Gauthier. This was a letter written in ink.

Mr. Farris produced another paper and asked Mr. Gauthier whether it (Continued on page 3) hygienic problem now solved

a new and different way—true protection. Dispose of it as easily as tissue

By ELLEN S. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THE old-time "sanitary pad" is fast becoming a rarity. Millions are discarding it as a needless hazard. "KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

Discards as easily as tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops all danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

FORMER VICTORIA GIRL PRETTY BRIDE

Miss Marian Cameron and Joseph Wilkinson Wed in Vancouver

Vancouver, April 29.—Members of two of the oldest families in British Columbia were united in marriage yesterday evening, when Marion McGilivray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewen Joseph Cameron of this city, formerly of Victoria, and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McGilivray Munie of "Thornhill," Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Wilkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilkinson, Angus Avenue.

The ceremony was celebrated by Rev. Arthur S. Sovereign at St. Mark's Anglican Church, and a scheme of rose and mauve had been carried out with tulips, hydrangeas, snapdragons and Calla lilies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Martha model, fashioned of cream rose point lace in bouffant style. The court train of silver cloth fell in graceful folds from the shoulder and was lined with flesh georgette. An exquisite veil of rose point lace was worn over flesh colored tulle, and caught under a coronet of rhinestones and pearls.

After a year's absence from her home in Vancouver, Mrs. S. D. Scott returned this week. She visited in London, and on her return called on the continent for several months later being the guest of her son, Mr. Morley Scott, at Ann Arbor, where he is a member of the teaching staff of the University of Michigan. En route home from there she visited Toronto and Winnipeg. While in London, Mrs. Scott was a guest of the International Club, National Council of Women and other prominent women's organizations.

Mrs. T. J. Jones entertained Wednesday afternoon at the tea hour at her home on Rockland Avenue, in honor of her aunt, Miss George, who was celebrating her ninety-sixth birthday. Miss Theima Jones and Miss Eva Moore assisted the hostess at the tea-hour, and the table was set with a basket of flowers arranged in Colonial style. Among the guests present were: Mrs. T. W. Paterson, Mrs. Walter Fraser, Mrs. J. H. Colquhoun, Mrs. J. C. Walsh, Mrs. Colquhoun, Mrs. Drury, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Erb, Mrs. Lettice and the Misses Lettice, Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. Dyer and Miss Dyer, Mrs. Wilkerson, Mrs. W. W. Winton, Mrs. Jeffries and the Misses Jeffries and Mrs. Longstaff.

Mrs. R. J. Cummins (nee Dorothy Pendray) held her post-nuptial reception this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mayor and Mrs. J. C. Cummins, at Shaughnessy Heights. The evening was spent in the dining-room the tea table was prettily with pink tulips and blue-bells in a mist of pale pink tulle, and lighted with candles in silver sconces. Mrs. Cummins and Mr. A. E. Todd presided at the tea and coffee urns for the first half of the afternoon. Their guests being taken later by Mrs. J. H. Hall and Mr. W. M. Lawrence. Those assisting in serving were the Misses Betty Savannah, Alexia Martin, Birney Cummins, Elaine Helms, Gertrude Gossard and Phyllis Pendray. Mrs. Pendray assisted her daughter in receiving the guests.

While bells and ivy decorated Trinity United Church, Vancouver, on Tuesday evening, when Miss Davina Vincent of Victoria, became the bride of Mr. John E. Vincent of Everett, Washington, youngest son of Mrs. E. Vincent of Victoria. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. D. Hobden, and the bridal music was provided by Mr. Kitson. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore ivory georgette of satin, her veil of silk net embroidered with carnations being arranged with a bandeau of orange blossom. The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Hastie, wore poudre blue georgette with bandeau of silver leaves. The bridesmaids, Miss Jean and Miss Aileen Annan, sisters of the bride, wore frocks fashioned alike, the former of peach and the latter Nile green. Bandeau of silver leaves completed their costumes. All attendants carried pale pink carnations.

The groom was escorted by the bride's brother, Mr. David Annan, and ushers were Mr. Norman Taylor and Mr. William Stables. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Twelfth Avenue East, when the rooms were decorated with Spring flowers. Later Mr. and Mrs. Vincent left for a honeymoon to Seattle and Olympia, and will make their home at Everett.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Winters, 342 Arnold Street, Wednesday evening when the members and friends of Queen of the Island Lodge, No. 308, L.O.B.A., gathered there. The evening was spent in games, dancing, singing and recitations. Little Miss Grace Hay danced the Highland Fling, Sailors' Hornpipe, Irish Washerwoman and other dances. Songs were rendered by Miss Evelyn Vallant, Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Kilman. Recitations by Mrs. Westgate. A guessing contest took place, the prizes for which were won by Miss Winifred Westgate and Mrs. Emery, first prizes; Mrs. Joyce, second, and Miss E. Hay, third. WIRING INSPECTOR POINTS OUT FAULTS

S. L. Wilson Speaks on Common Errors in the Home

Dealing with the common faults of householders in the use of electricity on the city's programme of weekly broadcasts last night Sidney L. Wilson, city wiring inspector, said in part:

"Never use a substitute for a fuse under any condition or circumstance. When a fuse blows and you have not another on hand for replacement, go without light until you can secure another fuse, rather than risk the loss of your home or perhaps worse."

"See that all your electrical appliances are properly cared for, by having worn and frayed cords replaced. Irons, toasters, heaters, curling irons, that at times give you a shock, should be given to a competent electrician to repair."

"Do not handle electrical appliances such as electric irons, toasters, heaters, curling irons, fans, etc., when at the same time your body may come in contact with a grounded surface such as water pipes, kitchen range, gas stove, concrete floors, bathroom fixtures or any metal object that is connected to the ground. Never use your kitchen range, gas stove or sink to set your toaster, or electric iron on while the cord is connected."

"Do not attempt to install additional wiring or fixtures in your home unless you understand exactly what you are doing, and only then when you have obtained an electric wiring permit to do so. If you employ a contractor to do some electrical work for you, see that he has obtained an electric wiring permit and when the work has been completed, demand a certificate of inspection, otherwise you may become liable for inspection fees, etc. The law provides a fine of $5 to $100 for doing electrical work without a permit."

"Do not fasten electric cord to walls, ceilings, floors or woodwork with nails or staples. Do not hang cords on nails or over pipes or pull them through partitions. Keep extension cords in sight, never under carpets or behind furniture. Provide the proper type of extension cord with carrying handle for use in the basement. There is a special type that may be obtained from any of the electrical stores. Never use telephone cord for electric work."

"Never use gasoline in an electric washing machine."

Montreal, April 29.—The gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the three months' period ending March 31, 1927, were $43,236,099.32, an increase of $2,891,057.02 over the same period last year. The net profits for the same period were $8,462,628.24, a decrease of $68,438.88 from last year. The gross earnings for the month of March were $15,432,137.57, an increase of $1,171,218.73 over March, 1926. The net profits were $2,984,194.36, an increase of $160,017.16 over March, 1926.

TRADE EXHIBITS AT ARMORIES TELL INSTRUCTIVE STORY IN BUY-AT-HOME DRIVE NOW ON

From Industrial Power to the Stocking of Pantry Shelves, Every Phase of Community Effort Is Represented in Outstanding Exhibits Closing at Armories To-morrow

Outstanding in the variety of their appeal, and in the attractive manner in which they are presented to the public, trade exhibits at the fifth annual Home Products Exhibition, now open at the Armories, have proved one of the great features of the united display by Victoria and district manufacturers.

Many of the exhibitors are old friends to the public, having taken an active and leading part in the annual displays held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce in other years. New entries, and there are a number of new entries this year, are making their bow to the public with a bright and moving appeal. As an object lesson in the true worth of Made-in-Victoria goods, the exhibition is making a great hit with its patrons this year.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC ENERGY

Something of the immense resources of hydro-electric power which has placed 35,000 horse power of connected electrical energy into motion in Greater Victoria, is shown in a fine display by the B.C. Electric Railway Company Limited. "The Wheel of Industry" is the central theme of the exhibit, which is carried out by miniature illuminated models of factories, ship-repair and other plants which derive their motive force from the silent, efficient servant of this modern era. A motor generator set in continuous operation is shown in this exhibit.

Under the same auspices the Victoria Gas Company show the newly improved gas furnaces, the result of thirty years of experimental work on the part of F. H. Hewlings, and associates. Mr. Hewlings' work is credited with revolutionary improvements in the use of gas as a fuel for heating purposes.

VICTORIA-MADE BATTERIES

Many who did not know that batteries were being completely assembled in Victoria by a Victoria firm made the acquaintance of Jones Bros. battery service, this week. In this display the life story of the storage battery is well told, with a graphic display showing all sections of the work that produces the finished result. The exhibit brings home to local buyers the fact that not only are first class batteries made in Victoria, but that they are finding favor in regard to both price and service, without difficulty.

This enterprise was started by young men in a small way at Yates Street, opposite the Capitol Theatre, and soon had to move to larger and more commodious premises. They were next located at the northwest corner of Yates and Quadra Street. Again the premises proved too small for expanding business, and after many successive changes Jones Bros. are now installed in a fine new building of their own, on the north side of Johnson Street, between Quadra and Vancouver. Their product is almost entirely formed of B.C. materials, with the lead coming from the smelter at Trail, and the electrolyte from the B.C. Assay and Chemical Company, Vancouver. The firm is already making firm headway into markets far afield, and is assured of a steady local market for its products.

MAKING KITCHENS COSY

The exhibit of the Albion Stove Works needs no introduction in Victoria, yet if that were necessary the cosy kitchen with an Albion range installed in bright and pleasant surroundings would win its way into the hearts of most housewives. Again it is a Victoria product, from materials turned out in B.C. and put together within a few hundred yards of the centre of the city. Under new management following a re-organization which took place some time ago the Albion interests are shooting ahead to new and greater successes.

SUGGESTIONS IN BUILDING

The Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber Company Limited represent one of a number of the building interests helping to make the exhibition a practical aid to the prospective home builder. The exhibit features a lattice pergola, with an effective display of the various sidings used in all types of building.

The millmen have their demonstrators on the job and many a patron of the fair has gone home happy with a revelation into the cost of building, considerably below his expectations.

Representing another side of the lumber business the Cameron Lumber Company have an attractive display. This firm ships large quantities of cross-grained fir, telegraph construction work, their products going to the United Kingdom, Australia, South Africa, the United States and to many corners of the world. The exhibit features both shooks, together with the smaller packing containers of interest to the berryman of the Island.

EVEN TO THE ROOF

Extending to the roof are all forms of building paper used in home and factory construction, the Sidney Roofing and Paper Company Limited, have an appealing display that features the practical nature of their many sided wares. The exhibit is a bungalow, roofed, and decorated with multicolored strips of paper, showing the flexibility and range of utility of their many products. The firm was one of the first to locate on the new industrial reserve, inhabiting the ground once the site of an Indian camp on the former Songhees reservation.

Lord Willington turned the first sod for their new pulp plant a few weeks ago, marking another stage in the successful development of another home industry.

LOCAL INVENTORS BUSY

The Victoria Brass and Iron Works have a display that will appeal to the practical and mechanically inclined. In a new type of jack and other devices, mostly the work of a local inventor, and for which a big future is indicated. The hydraulic jack is unique in its conception and its use in public works has been the first time at this exhibition is arousing a good deal of favorable comment. It can lift a seven ton truck with ease, and is supplied in various sizes.

FURS IN THE MAKING

The fur trade is well represented at the exhibition, and from widely different angles, the Shoal Bay Rabbitry, one of the most successful of the Made-in-Victoria industries, has an enterprising display. Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Boucher have been raising rabbits for the last eight years and have lately turned to the production of coney pelts. The exhibit consists of 23 live Black Siberian Hare, White Siberian Hare, and Chinchillas, in natural surroundings. Mr. Boucher demonstrates in pelts the good and bad qualities of a fur, the advantages of various breeds, and has much of interest to the public to explain. Good money is being made in the rabbit raising business, both in the fur and skins, he says.

A notable exhibit at the Home Products Exhibition, the Hudson's Bay Company shows the treatment of skins from the raw pelt of the animal until it is wrapped around the neck of Milady in the fur creations that make feminine eyes goggle and heads swivel on their necks in the streets. The demonstration work at the Hudson's Bay exhibit is proving an attractive feature. Also in the display under the same auspices is an effective showing of furniture, models serving to carry many of the accessories of the women's wear trade.

FOR THE PANTRY

The housewife appears to be the most important buying person in each home. If exhibitors are to be credited, several exhibits call for the attention of the housewife and seat her persuasively in kitchen or pantry atmosphere where her prudent mind can soon see an effective saving in the buy-at-home campaign. In this class is the exhibit of Holsum Products, by interests who have been closely identified with the holding of the exhibitions in Victoria, and who are making an attractive contribution to the success of this show. Pickles, mail, vinegar, ketchup, and the hundred and one types of condiments that are indispensable in the pantry are shown in surprising numbers. It was, incidentally, the Holsum Products who put forward the idea of the show-card contest, and which has made such a great hit with patrons of the show. David Spencer Limited, in a courteous exhibit, display a tasteful garden scene, with fresh and unburied-looking models taking tea in cool grassy surroundings under a rose pergola. Spencer's Own Products are featured in the display, which reminds patrons of the excellent refreshment rooms of the King's Daughters open daily at the exhibition for those who wish to spend some time in viewing the exhibits as they deserve.

W. A. Jameson, one of the oldest coffee blending houses in Victoria, has an attractive display of the brands that have been constant missionaries for the quality and care that goes into this time of service in the local field.

FROM FERTILE FIELDS

Kershaw's Logan Juice exhibit takes one to the fields of Saanich where loganberries ripen in the warm sun under the balmy breezes of that fertile peninsula. Loganberry juice as a beverage is gaining in favor, and the fact that it is home-made is a double attraction.

Digsons Limited, who recently enlarged and improved their holdings in Victoria to cater to a steadily expanding trade, have a typical exhibit, carefully executed and attractive at every turn. Something of the wizardry of the modern art of the stationer is shown in the display, which is a bright spot in the exhibits addressed to widely divergent subjects.

The Victoria Bed and Mattress Company provide an exhibit that shows the construction of sleep-time comfort for those who enjoy a good night's rest. Rest, their demonstrators say, is the result of a clear conscience and pleasant surroundings. Both factors are stitched into the made-in-Victoria mattresses, shown under all stages of their make-up.

McDowell & Mann, who piloted the new automatic fuel oil heating systems into Victoria recently, show that the largest and heaviest part of that equipment is made-in-Victoria. In the huge tanks which are part of the system. The automatic control is also demonstrated, showing its points to many inquirers. The fuel oil heat plants made their public bow to Victorians at the last Willows Fair, and have proved one of the live selling factors in this city since that date.

IN NATURE'S MANTLE

The floral wealth of Victoria and its municipal neighbors is well shown at the exhibition. Brown's Victoria Nurseries Limited have an attractive display of roses in full bloom, and a wonderful selection of potted plants and cut flowers. It was from this stall that the bouquet given to Miss Mackenzie on the opening night was selected, and donated on behalf of the joint exhibitors at the show.

Layritz Nurseries Ltd. have a display under the direction of M. Layritz himself, one of the pioneers in the horticultural industries which are now making such sweeping progress on Vancouver Island and going out after world markets with certified claims to products second to none in the Empire. Ornamental shrubs, flowering azaleas, and nearly one hundred shades of green represented in growing plants and shrubs are represented in this exhibit, testimony on the versatility of nature in cultivation.

BASIS OF THE HOME

Property, the basis of the home, is well represented in the display by the City Lands Department, in charge of Joseph Witcomb, Acting Lands Commissioner. The City has been one of the big boosters of the exhibition, contributing an effective lesson in dangerous house wiring, and showing a fine field with its demonstration of the fact that land in Victoria represents a type of true investment that has an assured future.

Not only did the City Lands Department set aside an excellent homesite on the Burleigh subdivision at the forge for the fair, but it has up, and the hundred and one types of condiments that are indispensable in the pantry are shown in surprising numbers. It was, incidentally, the Holsum Products who put forward the idea of the show-card contest, and which has made such a great hit with patrons of the show. David Spencer Limited, in a courteous exhibit, display a tasteful garden scene, with fresh and unburied-looking models taking tea in cool

The big "talking" sign setting off the City exhibit is pulling many inquiries. One of the first of whom was Peter J. Hobson, a wealthy visitor who, after travelling around the world met Victoria first. Yet it held its first land sale, bought then, returned next year to buy sixteen ad-

EDUCATIONAL DISPLAYS TEACH CONFIDENCE IN FUTURE OF B.C. PRODUCTS

Fine Exhibits Prove Drawing Card for Home Products Exhibition, and Show Many Reasons Why Buy-at-Home Movement Is Step in Right Direction

Courtesy displays at the Home Products Exhibition holding its fifth annual showing at the Armories now, have proved so lively and entertaining that they have been dominant factors in the unprecedented attendance at the fair this week. Many patrons who went at the first of the week to give the exhibition their moral support, were charmed by what they saw, and have reappeared again and again at the doors, for a further review of the wonders of the show.

Optimism, founded on the proved accomplishment of new ground won, is the keynote of nearly all the displays entered in this class. Comparisons are out of the question, as the exhibits entered by the Federal and Provincial Governments, the City, the Public Schools, and many other private and public organizations are distinct in themselves.

A GRAPHIC LESSON

In timely keeping with "Save the Forest Week" the Provincial Forest Branch show a woodland scene in miniature.

GROWING OPPORTUNITIES

No less effort has gone into the fine display by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, which with its carefully compiled and

GOLDEN B.C. EGGS

The gobies of the nursery rhyme that laid the golden eggs has but a nominal lead on the British Columbia exhibitors. It is shown by the Federal Poultry Branch in conjunction with the Dominion Egg Inspection service, B.C. "Biddies" tucked many a world's feather into their plumage at the last egg production tests. Hens that lay every day in the year, with proper exception of the seventh day, are making B.C. poultry figures draw attention from the eyes of the world.

A neat display under the auspices of Women's Institutes reminds the public of the good work being carried on by the Queen Alexandra's Solarium at Mill Bay.

VETERANS SUCCEEDING

The Red Cross Workshops show that the war veterans, whose handicaps in life might have discouraged those less imbued with the dominant desire to win through in spite of all obstacles, are making good, and that their work in this new field not only carries the men to something better in life, but can compete with the best products turned out in commerce today.

FINE SCHOOLS' DISPLAY

The display by the united public schools of Victoria have aroused so much favorable comment during the week that a reference here is perhaps superfluous. The work of High and Grade schools in day, night, and technical classes has been an astounding revelation to many who were not closely in touch with educational successes that have made Victoria the Mecca for settlers who desire progressive schools for their children.

LAUGH AND LEARN

S. L. Wilson, City Wiring Inspector, is the author of one of the most effective displays in the exhibition in a booth that has a serious mission, but tells it in a way that is wholly entertaining.

At every turn in the wiring inspection exhibit the public is invited to learn common errors by the visible method. And Mr. Wilson has contrived to make the lesson not only attractive but intensely diverting. During the week he has been the recipient of many confidences by householders who said that they knew this or that was incorrect with the equipment of their home, now that they had seen it displayed, and would go home to see that the danger was removed.

SHOW-CARD CONTESTS

Showing the active interest taken in the buy-at-home movement, which the exhibition ushers in now on a more permanent basis, several dozen entries have been received from entrants in the show-card contest. Lack of drawing ability deterred many from putting their ideas on paper, but from the entries received many excellent suggestions have been put forward. The sum of $50 in cash prizes will be distributed among the winners after the judging has taken place.

Educational displays contribute largely to the outstanding success of the exhibition, and are in the aggregate the embodiment of many hours of hard work and thought on the part of those who contributed the courtesy displays.

ANNUITIES TO AID OLD AGE PENSIONS

Federal Minister of Labor Outlines Scheme He Has Worked Out

Ottawa, April 29.—Announcement of a plan whereby the $240 old age pension recently provided by Parliament might be increased to $365, or one dollar a day, on payment of forty cents a month by the individual was made by Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, at a gathering here last night held to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Ottawa Electric Railway Employees' Union.

Criticism of the Old Age Pension Act had been made on the ground that $240 a year was not sufficient for a person to live on, stated the Minister of Labor. The bill allowed a person to have an income of $125 and he had just worked out a scheme whereby that $125 a year could be obtained under the present government annuities plan for the payment of some forty cents a month. Men who therefore this small payment would therefore be assured of an income of $1 a day when they reached the age of seventy years.

COMMERCE CHAMBER HELPED

C. P. W. Schwengers, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which in Senior and Junior Sections this year swung in behind the Home Products' Exhibition to make it a success.

AIDED IN STAGING MOST SUCCESSFUL PRODUCTS FAIR

Members of the Home Products Exhibition committee of Chamber of Commerce putting over one of the most successful exhibitions ever held under similar auspices included H. J. Pandray, chairman, Mayor J. C. Pandray, Alderman J. B. Clearhue, G. B. Mitchell, Alderman H. C. Holmes, A. E. Todd, M. P. Blair, A. V. Clarke, John Wood, A. J. Gray, H. F. Hewett, A. H. Alexander, S. front of the Arras Road. He described the daily routine of firing some 600 rounds daily in demolishing the heavy wire fortifications of the German trenches. He told of the phase of the attack carried out by the First Division on the villages of Thelus and Fardus, and paid a very fine compliment to the work of the infantry in taking their objective in record time in spite of terrible conditions of the ground, which was strewn with mud and a mass of shell holes.

Eighteen fire prevention notices were served and all secured instant attention. No police court cases were necessary.

treatments were given to a man who gave his name as Joseph Tremblay, but the physician claims to have recognized Auger by photographs and by seeing him on the political platform as the patient.

On the other hand, Mr. Auger categorically denies ever having suffered from the disease for which Dr. McGregor gave the treatment, and claims he never even saw the physician before he was served at the House of Commons with the account. The hearing has been adjourned until May 1.

WONDERFUL BLOOMS IN SHAWNIGAN SHOW

Spring Flowers and Blooms
Win High Praise

Shawnigan Lake, April 29.—The third annual Spring flower and bulb show held under the auspices of the Shawnigan Farmers' Institute took place in the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association Hall on Monday, and proved an outstanding success, both from the point of beauty of the exhibits and attendance.

The show was opened by the president of the institute, G. A. Cheeke, who in a few well-chosen words congratulated the exhibitors on the wonderful show of blooms, and the ladies for the beautiful needlework, and specially mentioning the collection of wild flowers gathered by the children, one exhibit containing twenty-five varieties.

There was keen competition in all classes, especially the decorated tables, there being seven entries in this class, and the judge found it difficult to arrive at a decision. First and Mrs. G. A. Cheeke second prize. Competition was also keen in the collection of garden flowers. The first and prize exhibits were exceptionally good, considering the backward Spring. Mrs. Furlonge took first prize and Mrs. Trevor Keene second. Daffodils, tulips, narcissi and polyanthus formed the main body of the exhibits, together with wall-flowers and rock garden plants. In vegetables the rhubarb exhibit was very fine, with a fair showing of radishes and lettuce. In the decorative classes potted plants and baskets of assorted blooms made that section attractive. In the ladies' work section there were some very fine examples of needlework, knitting and embroidery. The art section contained some good water color pictures. In conjunction with the show were several stalls to entice money from the unwary. Miss Davidson and Mrs. McPherson conducted a "home produce" stall. Miss Mable Blake presided over the spinning jenny, and Miss Davis and Mrs. J. N. Hughes enticed the dimes for the chance to win a beautiful ice cake. The following were the prize winners:

Best collection of garden flowers—1. Mrs. Furlonge; 2. Mrs. Trevor Keene.
Six varieties of distinct garden flowers—Dr. P. T. Stanier.
Collection of tulips—1. Mrs. Trevor Keene; 2. Mrs. F. T. Oldham.

Decorative work—1. Mrs. F. Gannon; 2. Mrs. J. Christison.
Knitted socks—1. Mrs. Granger; 2. Mrs. Christison.
Water color painting—1. A. E. Morris; 2. Mrs. W. P. Gooch.
The committee in charge were G. A. Cheeke, P. T. Elford, W. Mudge, R. B. Moulton and E. C. Nightingale. Those in charge of refreshments Mrs. G. A. Cheeke, Mrs. F. T. Elford, Mrs. Nightingale, Mrs. Moulton and Mrs. W. Mudge. Mrs. E. A. Leather of Duncan was judge of the flowers, vegetables and art; Mrs. J. H. Whitton, Duncan, judged the ladies' work.

During the afternoon His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Randolph Bruce, and Miss Helen McKennie paid a visit to the show and expressed great pleasure at being able to attend and admire the array of flowers. Miss McKennie was presented with a bouquet of flowers and a box of home-made candy. The party was given a rousing reception.

A double-header basketball game and dance took place in the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association Hall on Saturday evening. A team of ladies from the White Lunch played the Shawnigan Yellow Jackets (ladies), and the Andrews, Victoria senior men's team played the Shawnigan seniors. The Shawnigan ladies won their game with a score of 16 to 15.

The Shawnigan men's team swamped the visitors with a score of 65 to 7.
The Shawnigan ladies' team were Mrs. Geo. Orr, Mrs. F. Gannon, Mrs. M. Woodruff, Miss Cronk and Miss K. Luckovich.
White Lunch ladies' team—Miss K. White, L. Spersholt, J. Ewer, D. Ruffie and K. Freestone.
Shawnigan seniors—A. H. Ploves, Eric Gibson, Harold Neff, Theo Elford and Felix Luckovich.
The Shawnigan Club entertained the visitors to supper and dance. The Night Hawks' Victoria orchestra provided the music.

House-cleaning Job Done Yesterday With New York
Giants Bounding to Top and Pittsburgh Taking Severe Tumble; Terrific Hitting by Athletics
Sends No Less Than Six Washington
Hurlers to Cover; Brooklyn Still Being Badly Treated

New York, April 29.—The New York Giants' bats again played the marching music for the National League parade yesterday after a wild scramble for choice places in the line.

With a flurry of extra basebells that subdued the Boston Braves by 4-3, the Giants profited yesterday by the defeat of the Pittsburgh Pirates to clinch undisputed possession of first place.

At the same time the Philadelphia Quakers and St. Louis Cardinals moved up into second place, while there was a general shakeup in the American League which affected no less than five teams.

STAKE VERY SOON;
START PLAY MAY 15

Entries for the club championship of the Uplands Golf Club will be received by the secretary up to 4 p.m. on May 12.

The following are the dates for play:

Qualifying round of thirty-six holes, May 15.

First and second rounds, May 22.

Third and semi-final rounds, May 28.

Final (thirty-six holes), June 5.

The thirty-two low scores will qualify in the championship round and the defeated sixteen will form the first flight. Those competitors outside the thirty-two who qualify will be formed into flights.

Prizes will be offered to the winners and runners up in all flights and to the winner of the medal round.

NELSON FAMILY ADOPTS REFUGEES

Rev. M. B. Parnagian of Near East Relief is Speaking in City

"It may seem a far cry from Athens, Greece, to British Columbia, but this part of the Near East Relief is some very close to one part of the Province, when two little Armenian refugee children, straight from one of our orphanages, found a welcome in the home of an Armenian family

In Nelson a few weeks ago," states Rev. M. B. Parnagian, representative of the Near East Relief and Save the Children's Fund, who is speaking before schools and churches in Victoria this week.

ADOPTED TWO

"Last Summer I visited the Okanagan and found this childless Armenian home and they asked for two of our children. The Dominion Government made their admission to Canada a very easy matter and now two little children have exchanged the horrors and uncertainties of life in a refugee camp for the comfort and what is to them luxury of an average Canadian home."

"This week a childless widow in Vancouver has agreed to bring one of the children to her home, and we are hoping that through our local committee, amongst the members of whom are Mrs. Schofield, Dr. Clay and Fred Landsberg, that some child may find a home on the Island."

"Among the 50,000 children now in our care in the Near East, we have all kinds of course, but chiefly they are the ones who have been physically strong and mentally alert or they would never have survived the hardships through which they have gone. While I am sure that the good people of British Columbia have supported the Save the Children Fund solely through a sincere desire to aid the children and with no thought of any return, still it is a great pleasure to feel that by bringing these unusually fine children into the Province while they are at an impressionable age, they are contributing to the future of the country by bringing in these potentially splendid citizens."

Mr. Parnagian is an Armenian, educated in mission schools in Armenia, later graduating from Drew Theological Seminary in Chicago. During his brief visit to Victoria he has spoken at the following schools: Collegiate, St. Aidan's, St. Alban's, St. Ann's, St. George's. Later he will speak at Sefton, St. Margaret's, and also Brentwood.

ARION CLUB CONCERT FOR TUESDAY NEXT

Miss Eva Hart to Assist
Veteran Choir in Fine Programme

The Arion Club will hold the second concert of their thirty-fifth season at the Empress Hotel ballroom on Tuesday evening, May 2. Tickets have already been mailed to the subscribing members, and if any have not received theirs they are asked to telephone Mr. Fred Russell, Eva Hart is to be the soloist on this occasion, and in addition to singing a group of songs will be heard with the club in "Omniopotence," a composition of Schubert's, and sung for the first time before a Victoria audience. The club, in addition to many well-known choruses will also sing the two test pieces which the Victoria Musical Festival included in their programme.

Herbert Kent, the honorary conductor, will lead the club, but two numbers will be led by Frank Sehl, honorary assistant conductor, and Mrs. Clifford Warr, who, as usual, be the club and solo accompanist.

LADYSMITH HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

Ladysmith, April 29.—Wednesday afternoon at 3.40 the volunteer fire brigade was called out to the home of Thomas Kerr, White Street, a fire having broken out in the kitchen. Considerable damage was done before the alarm was given. The prompt action of friends saved some of the furniture. The house was partly covered by insurance, but Mr. Kerr will be a heavy loser.

Miss Jessie and Christina Brown of Vancouver have been spending the past week with their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Allan, Victoria Road. They are leaving for their home today and will be accompanied by Mrs. Allan and children, who will visit her parents for a week.

A large crowd were in attendance Wednesday evening in the Rialto Theatre, when the play entitled "The Road to the City" was presented by the senior dramatic society in aid of the United Church. All credit is due to those that were in the play for doing their parts so splendidly. The cast was composed of the following: Miss E. Robertson, Miss C. Cloke, P. McKay, J. Fagan, E. R. Cull, W. Ross, W. Atkinson, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Currie and Miss A. Mason.

Tuesday evening about 7.30 a fire alarm was sent in which the volunteer fire brigade speedily answered but upon arrival found that the alarm had been put in by Inspector Dawling who wished to test the speed and water pressure. Inspector Dawling has been in the city a few days this week inspecting all buildings with Fire Chief R. Battie.

Telephone Wage Arbitration in B.C. Arranged

Ottawa, April 29.—Announcement of the appointment of a board of conciliation and investigation to deal with a wage dispute between the British Columbia Telephone Company and certain of its employees, was made this morning by Hon. Peter Heenan, Federal Minister of Labor.

The personnel of the board is as follows: F. J. Gillespie, Vancouver, chairman appointed by the Minister of Labor in the absence of a joint recommendation from the two other board members; J. A. Campbell, Vancouver, appointed by the Minister of Labor in the absence of a recommendation from the company, and Robert H. Neelands, M.P.P., Vancouver, the employees' nominee.

The employees affected are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and number 260.

MRS. SNYDER AND GRAY BLAME EACH OTHER FOR MURDER

New York, April 29.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray turned upon each other at the Snyder murder trial today, each charging the other with the whole guilt in the murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder.

Mrs. Snyder, though she may have gone out with men, morally was faithful to her husband until she met Gray, declared Edgar P. Hazleton, her counsel, at the trial today.

Gray found Mrs. Snyder a fit tool for his nefarious plan, Hazleton said. Canadian Pacific Railway excursion to Bellingham Tulip Festival, May 6, Princess Louise leaves Victoria at 9.30 a.m. Adults, $2.05; children, $1. Leave Bellingham 5.30 p.m. Tickets now on sale.

STANDARD FURNITURE CO. AGAIN EXPANDING

Since the general public is beginning to know we have five floors full of Display Furniture, and the immensity of our stock, we are doing an ever-increasing business—so much so that we have found it necessary to again enlarge our floor space. We are taking over part of the Sylvester Block, next door, but before alterations can be completed, walls broken through, etc., we must dispose of a quantity of our stock, especially the better goods. We would rather sacrifice this stock than get it scratched and marred from brick and plaster dust. Everything in the store will be reduced for quick clearance. A

Nobility Takes to "Shopkeeping" and Injects Individuality in the Mode

They Capitalize on Their Generations of Taste and Culture

By
LUCILE LAMARRE

THE Great War proved most upsetting in many a placid social stratum. Those who had known nothing but the meagre side of life, in a flash were showered with the wealth of the earth, and nobility in a twinkling of the eye was reduced to the ranks of citizenry. In the chaos and readjustment process the world benefited.

For the first time in their lives these scions of nobility were compelled to capitalize their knowledge and talents to earn a living. Some taught music and painting—others turned to the concert stage—but the vast majority of them, lacking gifts which would enable them to succeed in the arts, opened shops of various and interesting kinds in the capitals of the world. On Bond Street and the Rue de la Paix a number of the most colorful and unusual shops imaginable have been opened by these cultured refugees of revolutionary centres.

A mysterious exotic atmosphere pervades these little places that one must search for—and it is achieved by color—riotous color or subtle color or color in modern effects. In one of the shops I found among other things a particularly unusual pair of gloves. They had a flared cuff which had embroidered motifs in applique—after a modern design of Czech-Slovakian influence.

And then the queerest thing ever happened. I went over to see the Kayser showing of spring things and there, right before my eyes, thrown among a number of other models, was the pair of gloves I had just seen. But in replica. Yet, so like the original that it almost took my breath away.

But to get back to our color theme—in the shop of the Princess Y, I saw a very smart modern shade—beige nude—and it was in a pair of sheer silken hose. And again I saw the same color in the Kayser showing. Kayser keeps so abreast of the French mode that it seems foolish to hear of Canadians who until they go abroad to stock up on hosiery. This really is a foolish habit, for foreign hosiery never wears so well.

Its only claim to style is by its color—and any pair of Kayser hose has that. Not only has it style and color, but the clever "Slipper-Heel" which gives a charming slenderness to the ankle—a feature that is much appreciated in this age of striving for the slim figure. All Kayser stockings are fine gauge (22 gauge). Note their smooth, even elasticity compared with ordinary coarse gauge stockings.

I discovered to my surprise that a well known Paris couturier's models used Kayser underthings. They preferred them for not only did these underthings conform to the decree of fashion, but they wore so well that such a purchase proved a wise economy for their slim purses. Of course, these underthings' wearing quality is attributable to "Italian" silk of which they are made—exclusively Kayser. Another interesting feature is the "Marvelfit" innovation by Kayser which make the garment fit better and longer.

So this "nobility" has indirectly influenced our own domestic fashions via Kayser gloves, hosiery and underwear. And the result is indeed intriguing—but best of all—everyone knows that style changes never influence Kayser high standard quality. It is always FIRST.

CITY COUNCIL COMMITTEE POINTS WAY TO MILL RATE REDUCTION IN 1927 LEVY

Rate of 38.75 Mills Out Could Be Struck If Council as a Whole Favors Report of Its Special Estimates Revision Committee; Report Wins Majority Support on First Introduction Last Night

That Victoria could have a tax rate for civic purposes of 38.75 mills on the full value of land and on fifty per cent of the value of improvements by following out its recommendation in the budget was the substance of the report of the special committee on estimates to the City Council in session last night.

This committee, composed of Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman, Mayor J. C. Pendray, Aldermen E. S. Woodward and H. C. Holmes, recommended reductions in estimates of expenditures under council control of $31,335, and appreciation of anticipated receipts by $30,985, for a net gain of $62,320.

STEADY REDUCTION

This would maintain the steady reduction in the mill rate granted in the city for the last four years by a marginal amount in the face of added school and other costs this year. Last year the mill rate was 39 mills even, and if the committee's recommendations are adopted the rate would be 38.75 this year on the same basis in regard to land and improvement taxation.

Major items in the recommendations were suggested cuts of $15,111 in the works department, $5,100 in the parks board, and $5,000 in the contingent account. In revaluing anticipated receipts the committee recommended additions of $25,250 in the proportion of arrears of taxes received, and lesser sums in other estimated revenues.

This year the city will have the advantage of payments under the fifteen-year tax rebate plan, added to the normal payment of arrears of taxation, it was pointed out.

The committee stated that it had asked for and had been promised whole-hearted co-operation by the school trustees in reducing the estimated cost of education this year. The committee will ask the board to pare its ordinary estimates down to $454,444.

In the general revision considered by the special committee the William Stevenson Memorial skating rink project, estimated to cost $2,500 initially would go by the board. Other cuts not detailed, came generally from miscellaneous votes, including $500 from the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau grant. The committee went at some length into its recommendations, and revised even smaller printing and stationery items for small gains of $15 and $25 a time.

Alderman E. S. Woodward appended a verbal report to that of the committee on which he served, stating that while he had done his duty on the committee as he saw it, his personal view would have been against any further cuts.

No action was taken on the report last night. Alderman Marchant asking time to consider the cuts, as chairman of the works committee, the heaviest sufferer in the suggested revision.

Generally in council circles the report was favorably received, with some criticism levied at the policy of reductions without detailed advice from departmental heads in the various city services.

BUDGET FOR 1927

If the report is adopted the 1927 budget would be as follows, subject to minor changes: Estimated expenditures $2,609,106; estimated receipts $1,079,014; leaving the amount to be raised by levy on land and on half the value of improvements at $1,530,092. This with a land value assessed at $25,517,234, and on half the value of improvements totalling $27,521,030, would give a mill rate of 38.75, or a quarter of a mill lower than was in force last year. The actual reduction, however, would be much larger, as upwards of $100,000 in added expenditures had been asked for this year.

Asked on what basis of collections he had prepared the amended figures of the suggested levy D. A. Macdonald, City Comptroller, stated that he had been instructed to count ninety per cent as the probable percentage of collections. Last year the city actually received over eighty-eight per cent of its levy, the balance being made up in other revenues apart from that on land and improvements.

Enlarging his statement Mr. Macdonald added that in order to hold its present mill rate of 39 mills this year the city would have to slice a further $98,000 odd from its expenditures or else receive that sum in additional receipts, disregarding the report of the special committee. Superannuation with a possible cost of $25,000 would serve this year to reduce receipts from the sale of city lands, he added, advising caution in carrying the pruning too far.

AGAINST OVERPRUNING

Aldermen R. A. C. Dewar, William Marchant, John Harvey and H. O. Litchfield expressed themselves against precipitate cutting, which might do more harm than good, they said. Aldermen P. R. Brown, E. S. Woodward, H. C. Holmes and Mayor Pendray explained that every item affected had been considered at length by the special committee. Mayor Pendray said he personally had hoped for a cut of four mills in the levy, but had found that to be out of the question.

The more money the city took from ratepayers the less citizens would have to develop the business of the town, supplemented Alderman Holmes. To his mind the levy had been severe in the years gone by and that had been one factor which had retarded growth to an appreciable extent. He favored the cuts suggested, and would have proposed still further reductions if possible, he concluded.

After desultory discussion the council agreed to table the report of its special committee, with instructions meanwhile to the comptroller to prepare the tax rate by-law at 38.75 mills for passage in that form, or at an altered figure to be decided at the next session of the council. The council has until May 15 to finally make the 1927 levy effective.

While no vote was taken on the issue last night the report of the special committee recommending the lowered mill rate had an obvious majority of declared supporters present.

Luxton

Luxton, April 29.—The regular meeting of the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute will be held in the Luxton Hall on Tuesday, May 3, at 2 p.m., when in addition to ordinary business Miss Mary Kelly will speak on "Institute Work and Methods." The chair will be taken by Mrs. R. Brown, who has again consented to act in the capacity of president. Mrs. Brown was the first president of the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute, and a great deal of good work was done by this organization throughout the district in which it operates. Mrs. Brown resigned from the presidency at the last annual meeting, and Mrs. J. Higham was elected to the chair. Mrs. Higham has recently left the district and Mrs. Brown was prevailed upon by the directors to resume her able leadership.

ALBERTA WOMAN MISSING

Edson, Alta., April 29.—The search still continues for Mrs. E. R. Millidge, missing since early last Sunday morning, but all hope of finding her alive has been abandoned. It is the impression of all who knew here that Mrs. Millidge suffered a lapse of memory and walked out of the house, unconscious of what she was doing, or else walked in her sleep. She could not go very far, owing to the condition of the country, before falling into a creek, but dragging of the creek has proved futile.

200,000 Satisfied Users in One Year

TWO hundred thousand Canadian Motorists have placed their "O.K." on Marvelube Motor Oil and now use it regularly.

Included in this great army of car owners are motorists driving every make and model of car found on the roads of Canada.

Ford, Chevrolet, Nash, Oldsmobile, Reo, Dodge, Hupmobile, Essex, Hudson, Jewett, Pontiac, Jordan, Lincoln, Gray-Dort, Star, Durant, Flint, Maxwell, Studebaker, Paige, Overland, Willys-Knight, Packard, Chandler, Pierce Arrow, Cadillac, Vauxhall, Chrysler, and every other make and model is represented.

These 200,000 car owners indicate—by their steady use of Marvelube—that in their private and independent judgment, it is the finest motor oil it is possible to buy.

They have formed this judgment on the lubricating results Marvelube has given in their motors—on the smoother operation, cooler running, lowered depreciation and upkeep costs and general all-round engine improvement which the use of Marvelube promotes.

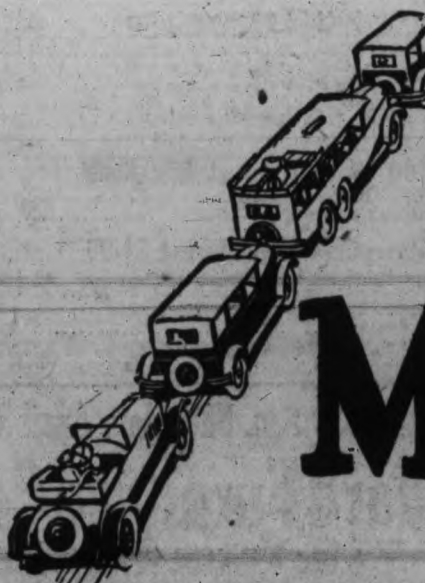

Join the legion of Marvelube users to-day!

Try a complete filling of Marvelube—making certain that you fill with the grade especially designed to lubricate your make and model of car as specified by the Marvelube chart which is on display at Imperial dealers and service stations everywhere.

Results will convince you, too!

LAILA

A Tale of the Days of Christ, by John Newport

(Copyright, 1926, by Eugene MacLean)

Antonius grinned. "Six pieces, he said. I will tell you where you were in conference with Laila before her house, and—"

The mantle came down from Ezra's head, and he spread his hands appealingly.

"But you said five," he cried. "I will give five pieces, but six pieces I cannot."

"Seven pieces of gold," Antonius said calmly. "I will tell everything unless you give me seven gold coins!"

Ezra threw up his hands and eyes, despairingly, and scrambled to his feet. "I will run and get the money, or it will be ten pieces you demand," he wailed.

As he ran out the door, Antonius broke into a roar of laughter. He still was chuckling when Ezra came back. Night had come, and the elder bore a lamp. The open flame flickered in the wind as Ezra turned to close the door.

"No one is abroad," he said, breathing heavily, as if he had been running. His voice choked a little. "Here are your five pieces of gold!"

"Eight," I said, responded Antonius, without looking at the coins the elder extended to him.

Ezra dropped the money, and seized Antonius' hand in both of his. "No, no, no," he cried in anguish. "Five it was you said, and then six, and then seven! I have brought seven! See!"

Still holding to Antonius with his left hand, he delved into his robe with his right and produced two more coins. "Seven broad gold pieces—a ransom fit for Caesar!" He took the five pieces that had fallen, and spread them, with their fellows, upon the ridge of Antonius' leg.

The soldier eyed them, a smile broadening his face. With a swift motion of his hand he gathered them together.

"All right," he said generously. "Seven pieces. For this I tell the commissioners to—"

He tucked the money beneath his thigh. "I wouldn't have told Herod's men anything, anyway."

"But," began the elder, but—

"Do not lament your money," the soldier interrupted, with great good cheer. "It will be put to a good use. I shall buy things with it—for me."

Ezra rose, and sighed.

"You see," Antonius went on, "I told a good friend to-day that I needed money. And he said to get it from the first visitor to the inn. And, Ezra, you were the first."

"That friend of yours," said the elder, "was an evil man. I have wasted the gold I saved to buy me another field."

He unbarred the door, and without saying farewell to Antonius, went out into the darkness. His lamp, forgotten, remained burning on the floor. The soldier picked it up and placed it on his other side, in case Ezra should remember, and come back for it.

"Seven pieces of gold, and a lamp," Antonius said to himself. "I shall buy a house and some slaves, and—"

He lost himself in pleasant imaginings, and so fell asleep.

A splashing of rain in his face awakened him in the morning. He had neglected to close the door, and the wind was whipping the cold drops upon him as far as his waist. He sat up suddenly, and shivered.

Then he gave an exclamation. Opposite him, squatting upon his heels, was Aaron, the shepherd, who had set his broken bone, and taken away his sword.

"I thought you had fled to the hills!" he said.

"I did," retorted the old man. "But I returned in the middle of the night on a mission. Here!"

He reached behind him, and drew out a short, broad sword—the weapon that Antonius had hurled at him, and that he had borne away.

"I return your sword," he said. "It is yours, not mine."

He handed it to Antonius, who smiled broadly, with pleasure. The soldier flourished the heavy blade.

"You knelt on my chest, and took my two pieces of gold," he said. "Are you not afraid to face me, when I am armed?"

Herod. Do you not fear being seized?"

The old man repeated, calmly: "I am not afraid. It may be that I will be taken, but I shall not speak." He arose, and, striding to the door, closed and barred it, after consulting Antonius to move himself out of the way.

"I came to ask your aid—nothing more than that you will remain silent if Herod's officers question you."

The soldier looked at him expectantly. "Have you money to offer me for silence?"

"I have no money," Aaron said, settling himself again upon the floor. "Nor do you need money toward that end. Jared is an innocent man—yet he wanders, hunted through the hills. His wife and daughter and their servants face starvation, except for what is brought to them secretly and by night. No man can give witness to the Jordan, save you, and his Samaritan slave, and the other bearer of your stretcher. Those who know of it, will not speak. And, soldier, he pointed his long forefinger at Antonius—"I am assured in my heart that you also will protect him."

"He did not go willingly," said Antonius, his forehead knotted.

"It is best that Herod be not told that he went at all," the shepherd said. "An informer has given him word—but there were no witnesses."

"Who informed him?" the soldier asked.

The shepherd shrugged his shoulders. "I do not know—but this much is certain—Jacob the publican was taken by the soldiers, your comrades, to the prison. He saw you, and Jared, and Jared's daughter, with the Arabians, when he guided them across the mountains to the Jordan. He had cause to hate the Arabian woman who attended you—and a messenger who came last night into the mountain said that Herod's officers also are seeking her."

"True enough," Antonius rejoined. "But if Jacob was the informer, how then did he chance to tell that I was slain, in the battle by the river?"

"That is beyond my knowledge," Aaron told him. "I had not heard afterward."

"And," the soldier related, with enjoyment, "one of my comrades gave him a buffet on the ear, for my sake. This Jacob annoyed me."

The shepherd returned to the object of his visit. "Shall I report to Jared that you will keep silent—that you will not tell even how the money was sent, to set him free?"

"I shall not speak," Antonius said, with a wide gesture. "I only jested when I spoke of money. And—"

He added, "In fact, only yesterday I would tell nothing of him nor of Jared, nor of Jared's daughter. Is the beautiful Maryam in good health?"

The old man's face saddened. "She weeps night and day."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Frightened Fox

(Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow was not far from the bungalow home of Boppy, Um and the Wiggles, where the rabbit gentleman was visiting. And one day Mr. Longears thought he would hop over to see his wife and Nurse Jane Pussy Wussy, to tell them he would soon be living again with them and his forty seven little bunny boys and girls.

"For," said Mr. Longears to himself as he hopped through the woods, "I have been visiting Boppy and Um quite long enough. And in the Fall, if they forget how to unscramble the Wiggles, I can go back for another visit."

Humming a little tune to himself, and twinkling his pink nose in jolly fashion, Uncle Wiggily hopped along on the green grass, the green moss and beneath the April green leaves on the trees and bushes.

All of a sudden, just when the bunny gentleman was wondering if he might meet with an adventure, there was a rustling in the dried leaves and from beneath a pile of them out leaped the Furry Fox.

"Oh!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Ah!" growled the Fox, smacking his lips. Of course this lip smacking was far from being polite, but one doesn't expect a Fox to be polite, so what is the use, I ask you? "Ah!" growled the Fox again, once more smacking his lips, which showed that he was hungry. "I have caught you at last, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Not yet!" cried the brave rabbit gentleman, as he turned quickly to hop away. But, alas! His paw caught in a tangle of vines on the ground. Uncle Wiggily tripped and fell.

Before he could get up the Fox leaped forward and caught the rabbit by his ears, holding him fast there.

"Please let me go," begged the bunny.

"No! No!" snarled the Fox. "I am going to drag you off to the den of my friend the Wolf and we two shall have a fine dinner. Ah, ha!"

Smacking his lips harder than ever, to show how much more hungry he was, the Fox began to pull Uncle Wiggily along. The rabbit tried to break away, but he could not.

"If there was only some way I could frighten this Fox to make him let me go!" thought poor Uncle Wiggily. "How glad would I be! Perhaps if I could scowl like the Fox it will scare him. I'll try!"

When the Fox looked down at the rabbit he was dragging, all at once

Uncle Wiggily made the most scowling face he could think of.

"If that doesn't frighten him I'll make another," said the bunny to himself. But the Fox, instead of being frightened, only laughed.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" he chuckled. "You can't scare me!"

Then Uncle Wiggily tried once again making such a scowling face that it seemed as if he never could straighten it out again. But the Fox only laughed more loudly and dragged the bunny on to the bottom of a hill.

At the top of the hill said the Fox, "is the den of the Wolf. Once there he and I shall have a fine feast!"

"Well, I guess this is the end of me!" sadly thought Mr. Longears, and the Fox began dragging him up the hill when, all of a sudden, a head, made of wood, and round, like a ball, rolled down the hill. The head bounced up in the air and hit the Fox on the nose.

"Wow! What does this mean?" asked the Fox, letting go of Uncle Wiggily's ears with one paw so he could rub the bruised nose.

"Oh, ho!" chuckled the rabbit to himself. "I know that round, wooden head belongs to Dimple Woggie. He must be trying to help me by frightening the Fox. All of a sudden a green wooden head rolled down the hill and, bouncing up, banged the Fox on the nose.

"Wow! What does this mean?" howled the bad chap, rubbing his aching nose with his other paw. He had now let go of Uncle Wiggily altogether.

"That was Bumble's head!" chuckled the bunny. "There are two Woggie boys trying to save me. And then, all of a quickness, a yellow head rolled down the hill and when the Fox saw this coming he was so frightened that, tucking his tail between his legs, he ran away."

"Good bye! You saved me!" cried Uncle Wiggily when Dimple, Wummie and Bumble came running down the hill to gather up their heads, which they had taken off to roll at the Fox. They had seen the danger of the rabbit gentleman and had taken that means of helping him. "You were good boys!" cried the bunny. "And I'll buy you some lollypops."

This he did as soon as Bumble, Dimple and Wummie had put on their wooden heads again. So everybody was happy except the frightened Fox.

Please don't let the puppy dog take the rag doll's hair ribbon to make a cat's cradle for the road train. If you do I can't tell you about Uncle Wiggily's farewell party which I want to in the next story.

YACHT SCHOONER NORTHERN LIGHT ARRIVES IN PORT

Borden-Field Museum Expedition to Alaska Puts in For Adjustment

Has Crew of Eight Sea Cadets; Three Members of Crew Are Victorians

With her crew of sea scouts, dressed in neat blue uniforms, busy polishing up brasswork and cleaning spars and decks, the trim auxiliary schooner yacht Northern Light, owned by John Borden, Chicago millionaire, lay alongside the wharf at Yarrow's Limited this morning, her white paint sparkling in the sunlight.

This vessel, which arrived here last night from San Francisco, will during the next five months cruise up the coast of Alaska in search of bear, seal, walrus and caribou for the Field Museum of Chicago. When the Northern Light clears from this port next week she will take on board about twenty-five sea scouts, most of whom are from the Field Museum of Chicago. These will include Miss Frances Ames of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Rochester B. Slaughter and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Goodspeed of Chicago. Ashley Hine, scientist of the Field Museum, will join the party at Nome, Alaska. Mr. and Mrs. John B. Casper, Jr. of San Mateo, John Clark Burgard of Indianapolis and Lieut. Thos. J. Keane, director of U.S. Sea Scouts, accompanied the vessel to Victoria, but will leave for their home from here.

PICKED CREW

The eight Sea Scouts composing the crew picked for their ability from 300 Chicago Scouts are: James Ryan, Kenneth McMillan, Jack Holbrook, Bruno Andrews, Johnstone T. Powers, Ted Purcell, Steve Ram and Otto Carstensen. The chief, second chief and chief steward will be well represented by Victorians. The Employment Bureau of Canada here, through the offices of Thomas Goldsmith, well-known local shipping man.

During her stay here, several minor repairs and changes will be made on the Northern Light. It is expected she will be here until May 7. An invitation has been extended by Capt. John Borden to all Sea Scouts and Boy Scouts of Victoria and Puget Sound points to go over the vessel. This is the second steamer of the White Star Line for Western Canada, and by its arrival the line from all parts of Western Canada. Representatives from the Canadian National Railways will also be included in the party. This is the second steamer of the White Star Line for Western Canada, and by its arrival the line from all parts of Western Canada. Representatives from the Canadian National Railways will also be included in the party.

FINE TRIP UP COAST
The trip of the Northern Light up from San Francisco was made under fairly good conditions. Although headwinds delayed her on some occasions, the vessel made an average speed of 7.5 knots with the help of her auxiliary engines. Capt. Borden included first and second mates, which the scouts handled the ship.

Capt. William F. Josephs, old-time sailing captain, acts in an advisory capacity to the boys. Others of the crew include first and second mates, first and second engineer, radio operator and steward and stewardess.

Considered a masterpiece and said to be the largest of its type ever built in the world, the schooner fisherman without bowprit, having a raised quarter deck and a top gallant mast. She has good freeboard with a pleasing sheer, her bow is of the overhang type and her stern is similar to the modern fisherman type of schooner yacht. She has considerable deadrise, so that she will lift up if pinched in the lee. There are several novel features of interest in the enclosed pilot house and chart room and the wireless house forward.

Her twin-screw power plant consists of two four-cylinder, 120 brake-horsepower, two-cycle, single injection Fairbanks Morse Diesel engines. Her lines are such as to enable her to be driven at a speed of 10½ miles per hour under power.

The construction of the vessel is inclined to be heavy. For protection from an outside sheathing of oak bark has been fitted and framed solid forward to withstand the shock of breaking ice. The stems and hood ends of planking are protected by galvanized iron stem bands and plates. The stringers and deck beams are also of exceptionally sturdy construction.

FINE ACCOMMODATION
Accommodations of the Northern Light have been worked out to suit Mr. Borden's particular needs, and are entirely different from usual yacht practice. The vessel is divided into five watertight compartments, consisting of forepeak, crew's quarters, engine-room, owner's quarters and after peak. The owner's double stateroom with adjoining bathroom is aft, and is the full width of the vessel. This room is to be fitted with a small kitchenette.

The main cabin is fourteen feet wide by twenty feet long and is for the use of the commercial ship type to give suitable light and ventilation. Access to the crew's quarters is had by a working passage on the starboard side of the engine casing. The galley is large and well arranged for service to the officers and crew's mess as well as the owner's dining saloon.

CREW'S QUARTERS
Separate staterooms are provided for the first and second mates, wireless operator, first and second engineers, cook and mess boy and steward. Each stateroom is to be well arranged with lockers and berths with drawers under. There is to be a separate bathroom and messroom for the officers. The fore-cabin will have lockers and drawers and will be provided with separate bathroom, messroom and plenty of locker space. Forward of the crew's quarters is a small room for storing gear and spare parts.

On deck there are very few erections, same being left clear for storage of life boats and tenders. Aft of the mainmast is a small cabin, where the engine-room is controlled by engine-room telegraphs and speaking tubes; next forward is a small skylight trunk over the owner's stateroom, skylight trunk over main saloon and main companionway. The engine-room skylight to be constructed of steel and arranged to lift off for removal of engine if necessary.

RADIO ROOM
Next forward is the radio house, which is sufficiently large to contain the radio instruments and light and air shaft to the mainmast. Forward is the skylight trunk and companionway to fore-cabin. Carried on deck amidships is a small cabin, which is as heavy as is generally used in fishing schooners of this size. The sails will have a total area of 7,563 square feet of working canvas. She has fuel tanks of 8,000 gallons capacity and fresh water tanks of 3,100 gallons capacity which will give her an exceptionally large cruising radius. Alongside the engine casing are large storerooms.

Her equipment is exceptionally complete, including electric winches, electric mail and boat hook, Diesel driven light plant, hot and cold water system, Arcola hot water heating system and every convenience for Arctic exploration work, with which Mr. Borden is familiar because of previous cruises he has made to the northern regions.

First Vessel of Season For Nome Will Sail May 5

Seattle, April 29.—Scheduled as the first vessel of the season for Nome, Alaska, the freighter and passenger power boat Silver Wave, known in the far North as the "Banana Special," will begin loading this week preparatory to sailing via the inside passage, May 5. The Silver Wave will take a full cargo of fresh vegetables, oranges, bananas, grapefruit and other fruit. She is expected to arrive at her destination May 25 the same day that the schooner Donaldson is scheduled to leave for Nome from Seattle. Both vessels are to be used in the coastwise service between Nome and Teller, Wales, Shishmaref, Deering, Kaktovik and Kotzebue. They will both carry passengers and mail in the northern service. A full passenger list of twelve will sail on the Silver Wave, which will also carry a crew of eight.

SEAMEN CATCHES BOAT BY WALKING SEAPLANE TRIP

C. F. Teneffoss, Swedish Captain, Flies From Mission, B.C. to Empress of Canada

The versatility of the seaplane was notably demonstrated last evening when C. F. Teneffoss, a Swedish seaplane captain, who had urgent business in Suva, was taken from the Canadian Pacific Toronto express at Mission city, and rushed by seaplane, piloted by Major D. H. MacLaren, the famous flying ace, to the Outer Wharf where he boarded the Empress of Canada, the Empress of Canada, en route to the Orient.

Last Sunday in Toronto, Capt. Teneffoss received orders to take over command of the steamer Empress of Canada, a Swedish vessel lying in the harbor. His presence was imperative for the former captain used last week, and the first officer of the ship was seriously ill with acute pneumonia. The captain's orders suggested that he might be able to connect with the Empress of Canada sailing from Vancouver yesterday and from Victoria last evening.

Captain Teneffoss immediately got into touch with the Canadian Pacific steamship passenger department at Vancouver by wire and was informed that if he boarded the Toronto express use to leave at 4 p.m. last Sunday from Toronto every facility would be given to him to complete the last lap of the journey to the ship by seaplane. Just before the Toronto express was due to reach Mission last evening a superb landing was made by Major MacLaren at a point on the Fraser River within easy reach of the Empress of Canada. In less than twenty minutes, Major MacLaren and his guest were in the plane in full flight for Victoria. They landed at the ship's side shortly after 7 p.m. and were met with a spontaneous ovation.

The Empress of Canada cleared from Victoria last night at 7.40 o'clock for Japan, China and the Philippine Islands, and will be captained by Samuel Robinson, Captain A. J. Halley, C.B.E., R.N.R., was in command. Captain Halley was formerly on the Empress of Australia.

The Canada took a passenger list of 270, including fifty-six first thirty-four second and 180 steerage. In cargo she had 4,800 tons, including 400 tons of potatoes, 800 tons of flour, frozen beef, mutton and butter. There were nearly 5,000 bags of mail on board for distribution in the Far East.

With a passenger list of 588 in all classes, the Royal Mail liner Niagara, Capt. A. C. Showman of the Canadian Australian Line, docked here this morning at 7 o'clock from Australia, New Zealand and Hong Kong. Except for choppy weather outside of Honolulu, the voyage was remarkably fine, passengers reported.

Passengers disembarked from the vessel here, several being destined to points in the United States. The list included 238 first class, 151 second class and forty-nine third class passengers. There were several through passengers for England and European points on board.

In cargo the Niagara brought in a total of 2,000 tons including frozen mutton, onions and other foodstuffs. Twelve bags were taken by airmail to Seattle.

Among the prominent passengers on the vessel were: Hon. James F. Baird, Col. Stapleton-Cotton, Major J. E. Robertson, Commander and Mrs. J. E. Robertson, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Dr. and Mrs. A. Beale, E. Green, Minister of Federal House of Representatives for Western Australia, en route to England with his wife; Major Stanley and Madame Williams.

SEAMEN CATCHES BOAT BY WALKING SEAPLANE TRIP

C. F. Teneffoss, Swedish Captain, Flies From Mission, B.C. to Empress of Canada

The versatility of the seaplane was notably demonstrated last evening when C. F. Teneffoss, a Swedish seaplane captain, who had urgent business in Suva, was taken from the Canadian Pacific Toronto express at Mission city, and rushed by seaplane, piloted by Major D. H. MacLaren, the famous flying ace, to the Outer Wharf where he boarded the Empress of Canada, the Empress of Canada, en route to the Orient.

Last Sunday in Toronto, Capt. Teneffoss received orders to take over command of the steamer Empress of Canada, a Swedish vessel lying in the harbor. His presence was imperative for the former captain used last week, and the first officer of the ship was seriously ill with acute pneumonia. The captain's orders suggested that he might be able to connect with the Empress of Canada sailing from Vancouver yesterday and from Victoria last evening.

Captain Teneffoss immediately got into touch with the Canadian Pacific steamship passenger department at Vancouver by wire and was informed that if he boarded the Toronto express use to leave at 4 p.m. last Sunday from Toronto every facility would be given to him to complete the last lap of the journey to the ship by seaplane. Just before the Toronto express was due to reach Mission last evening a superb landing was made by Major MacLaren at a point on the Fraser River within easy reach of the Empress of Canada. In less than twenty minutes, Major MacLaren and his guest were in the plane in full flight for Victoria. They landed at the ship's side shortly after 7 p.m. and were met with a spontaneous ovation.

The Empress of Canada cleared from Victoria last night at 7.40 o'clock for Japan, China and the Philippine Islands, and will be captained by Samuel Robinson, Captain A. J. Halley, C.B.E., R.N.R., was in command. Captain Halley was formerly on the Empress of Australia.

The Canada took a passenger list of 270, including fifty-six first thirty-four second and 180 steerage. In cargo she had 4,800 tons, including 400 tons of potatoes, 800 tons of flour, frozen beef, mutton and butter. There were nearly 5,000 bags of mail on board for distribution in the Far East.

With a passenger list of 588 in all classes, the Royal Mail liner Niagara, Capt. A. C. Showman of the Canadian Australian Line, docked here this morning at 7 o'clock from Australia, New Zealand and Hong Kong. Except for choppy weather outside of Honolulu, the voyage was remarkably fine, passengers reported.

Passengers disembarked from the vessel here, several being destined to points in the United States. The list included 238 first class, 151 second class and forty-nine third class passengers. There were several through passengers for England and European points on board.

L'ALLIANCE DECIDES TO GIVE BURSARY

To Student For Second Year
Work in French at Victoria
College

At the last of the fortnightly meetings of L'Alliance Française for this season, held yesterday at the home of Madame E. Sanderson Monin, Laurel Lane, the members, at the suggestion of Mrs. Hamilton Smith, decided to present a bursary to the student doing most satisfactory second year work in French, at Victoria College, and who will continue through university.

Madame Hallet, the president, thanked members of L'Alliance for their active interest in all the lectures held during the season and for the agreeable reunions fortnightly, which had been most pleasant and profitable. Madame Vivent continued her resume of the history of Italy. Tak-

BIG CLOVER CROP IN SUMAS DISTRICT

Success of Government's Experiment Expected to Bring Big Return

Profits to be Credited to Expense of Reclaiming Agricultural Area

Owners of land in the Sumas reclamation area stand to secure a substantial reduction in their total indebtedness to the Government as a result of the growth of a huge clover seed crop on the reclaimed area this year. Barring unforeseen accidents this crop should be worth well over a quarter of a million dollars. All this will be applied to the reclamation scheme it was announced at the Department of Agriculture. With this crop maturing now, sale of Sumas land is being held up for the present.

Altogether between 3,000 and 4,000 acres of clover will be harvested this year at Sumas under the direction of the Department of Agriculture, by far the largest ever produced in British Columbia. Experiments on smaller patches at Sumas have shown that the land there is capable of producing 500 pounds of seed to the acre so that the possible crop runs up to 1,500,000 pounds, or 750 tons, which at present prices would be worth $600 a ton. The value of such a crop would be $450,000 but officials of the Department of Agriculture are not basing their calculations on such an output.

LOW PRODUCTION COST

Compared with the cost of production is remarkably low, running to about $1.50 an acre for cutting the clover twice. Between $10,000 and $15,000 at the most should cover the cost of getting the clover ready for market.

If the clover produced on a large scale this year is anything like successful as that grown experimentally in smaller patches last year the total output at Sumas should be one of the most profitable crops ever secured in this Province. Certainly, it should reduce the cost of the Sumas scheme to the land owners involved substantially.

WINTER KILLING

About twenty-five per cent of the clover sown by the Government has suffered from what appears to be winter killing. Experts who investigated the matter recently found no trace of insects or disease and have concluded that the loss is due to weather conditions during the winter. Comparing present conditions with those which occurred in the previous experiments it is believed that a change in the time of seeding and cutting may eliminate the losses now experienced.

Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, will go to Sumas this week-end and look over the clover growing there in company with officials of the Department of Agriculture to see for himself how the crop is developing. Apart from the losses through winter killing the crop is reported to be extraordinarily large.

Langford

Langford, April 28.—Little Betty Cooney is the fortunate person to receive the year's free music tuition kindly offered by Mrs. Horace Langford, who is the fund of the Queen's Alexandra's Solarium. Mrs. A. Walker of Atkins Road won the winning ticket and donated it to Betty. The sum of forty dollars will be sent to the Solarium, due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. E. H. Male Beauty Show Latest Idea For May 24 Holiday

When the excitement of the bathing beauty contest for "Miss Victoria" is over Victoria men will be given a chance. W. H. Davies, secretary of the May 23 celebrations announces. In connection with the Victoria Day festival a beauty contest for men will be held, he says. It will be open to all males from eighteen years of age upwards on the Pacific Coast, and as in the case of the girls striving for the title of "Miss Victoria," the males will pose in bathing suits. "What constitutes beauty in a man is a matter on which there will be a great difference of opinion," says the secretary. "What many would immediately choose the perfect athletic type, regardless of the beauty of his features as exemplifying the perfect man, others might attach considerably more importance to an equine nose or flashing eyes. We are just drafting the rules governing the contest and I should be glad of any suggestions sent to me at the office of the Empire Realty Company. It is probable that the contest will be two classes, one confined to women voters and one to male voters, to find out which type of men women prefer.

If you want to get a LOT out of your truck or car

EVERY truck owner meets occasions when there is extra profit if he can get extra work out of his truck—put on an extra load, drive extra fast, go over bad roads. This is particularly true of trucks with load capacities of from one-half ton to two tons.

The truck will do it. But will the tires? They will if they're Goodyear Heavy Duty. These tires are built for overloads. They are stronger and thicker.

Many car owners also meet the same problem. Heavy cars, older cars on small tires, taxis, cars used for delivery. Goodyear makes Heavy Duty Tires for these cars.

These extra-strong, extra-rugged Goodyear Tires are made in passenger car sizes from 3 1/2" to 6.75" and in all truck and bus sizes. Sold by Goodyear Selected Dealers everywhere.
